SUMMARY.

There are indications that Prince Rupprecht's army is hastily establishing itself on the lines between St. Quentin and Cambrai.

The newspapers express the opinion that we are on the eve of a big battle.

It is asserted that Germany is preapring for a titanic struggle between Arras and the Champagne trenches.

The enemy resistance in the French sector is energetically increasing, and the cavalry is returning to the rear of the German lines.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his report on Saturday night, stated that the British had occupied Roisel, seven miles east of Peronne.

A successful raid was carried out eastward of Arras.

The British reached the enemy's second line, and entered trenches east of Neuville St. Vaast.

They also progressed in the neighbourhood of Ecourt and Croiselles.

Mr. Bean telegraphs that the Australian troops advanced about a mile in some parts on Friday.

They are in touch with the German rearguard at every part, and are no great distance from the enemy's trenches.

The French carried out a completely successful offensive between the Oise and the Somme.

The enemy, despite a desperate resistance, was driven back on a wide front.

The Germans caused inundations in the valley of the Oise, and the town of La Fere was flooded.

In the region north of Soissons the French made considerable progress towards Margival.

Two enemy attacks north-west of Reims failed under the French barrage and machine-gun fire.

The French have extended their positions very appreciably east of the St. Quentin canal.

They reached the western bank of the Oise, north of La Fere, and also progressed on the eastern bank of the Ailette.

A German official message says:—We repulsed strong French attacks west and south of Margival, and west of La Fere.

The Germans blew up every important crossroad in their retreat, and wrought havoc on buildings and public works.

Their wanton destruction, it is declared, was not a military precaution.

The statement that arsenic was found in the wells at Barleux, near Peronne, has been officially confirmed.

It is reported from Rome that Italian strategists foresee the heaviest German offensive against Italy very soon.

Many units made available by the shortening of the Western line will most likely be used.

There are said to be evidences of the enemy's concentration of troops on the northern front in Russia.

The Russian Government is energetically preparing to counter a possible enemy advance towards Petrograd.

Reorganisation is speeding up in Russia with the utmost earnestness.

Recruits are drilling in the streets. Shops and banks are open and trams are running.

It is believed that all the Grand Dukes will resign their military posts in order not to embarrass the Government.

As a result of the revolution the Nihilist party has been dissolved.

The Government in a proclamation states that the whole of Russia, including Finland, has joined the new regime.

The Emperor and the Empress are isolated at Tsarskoe Selo, in order to prevent a counter revolution.

According to a Berlin message the raider Moewe sank 27 vessels and took 593 prisoners to Germany.

The enemy, reinforced on the Monastir front, strongly counter-attacked the lost positions north-west, but was repulsed.

The French battleship Danton, 18,026 tons, was struck by two torpedoes in the Mediterranean, and sank, 296 being drowned.

The consensus of opinion in the United States Cabinet is that America should not supply military to co-operate with the Allies.

It favours authorising the President to use from £200,000,000 to £1,000,000,000, if necessary, in stamping out submarines.

Several German papers affirm that at the first cannon shot from an American steamer Germany will declare war.

The master of the American steamer, Healdton, which was torpedoed, states that 20 Americans were lost.

The sinking is regarded in diplomatic circles as one of the gravest cases, and is likely to hasten American action.

All the delegates attended a prolonged meeting of the Imperial War Cabinet in London on Friday.

The oversea delegates were much impressed at the importance of the matters presented for their consideration.

As the result of the State elections on Saturday the National party has achieved a decisive victory.

Many members of the late Parliament were defeated.

The Nationalists will probably have a minimum majority of 20 in the new House.

According to the figures that appeared conclusive yesterday the State of parties is as follows:—National 49, Labour 30, uncertain 11.

All the Ministers are likely to be returned. The Premier's election for Cootamundra is regarded as certain.

He is leading Mr. Minahan, the P.L.L. candidate, by 719 votes, and there are only three returns to come.

The Labour party gained several seats in the metropolitan area.

Mr. R. D. Meagher was defeated for Phillip by Mr. W. J. Doyle, president of the P.L.L. executive, and Mr. Griffith lost Annandale.

Mr. Griffith attributes his defeat to the apathy of the bulk of the Liberal electors.

Mr. M'Gowen, who is an inmate of a private hospital in Hobart, was defeated for Redfern by Mr. M'Kell (P.L.L.).

Mr. John Storey, leader of the Opposition, secured a majority of nearly 900 votes over Dr. Stopford at Balmain.

A second ballot will be necessary at Gordon, where Mr. E. J. Loxton, K.C., headed the poll.

The heavy Nationalist vote in the Newcastle district was something of a surprise.

Besides Mr. Grahame's victory at Wickham, Mr. Gardiner, the Nationalist candidate for Newcastle, defeated the P.L.L. candidate.

The Premier, commenting last night on the figures to hand, regarded the result as an overwhelming victory for the National party.

"One point which seems to be conclusive," he remarked, "is the complete exposure of the hypocrisy of the no-conscription cry."

The rolls for the Commonwealth elections to be held on May 5 will close at 6 p.m. to-day.

Some grievances were ventilated at the annual gathering of the Master Carriers' Association on Saturday.

It was stated that the Harbour Trust was constructing wharfs unsuitable for modern methods of handling goods.

The election manifesto of the Australian Labour party has been issued.

"If elected," it says, "we will continue, under the voluntary system, to secure every man fit and willing to go to the front."

Standard time was reverted to throughout the Commonwealth on Sunday morning, the clocks having been put back one hour.

Captain John Meandoe, a well-known figure in coastal shipping, died at Campsie on Saturday.

At the London wool sales competition was good, and prices were well maintained.

In the finals of the Public Service Shields competition at Randwick Rifle Range the Tramway Club won the A grade aggregate.

The Sydney Sailing Club's 18ft handicap on Saturday was won by Mississippi.

The Hawera (N.Z.) Dairy Company's cheese factory has been destroyed by fire.

Forecast.—Fine generally and warmer, with northerly winds, except for a shower or two on the North Coast. Another change approaching.

GREEN MANURING

FOR VARIOUS CROPS.

The question of Green Manuring has been one that HAS NOT RECEIVED THE AMOUNT OF ATTENTION from Agriculturists and Market Produce Growers that it warrants. It is being STUDIED VERY SCIENTIFICALLY in GREAT BRITAIN, the United States, and elsewhere, and, for various reasons, it will surely be a matter of importance for us in Australia.

GREEN MANURE CROPS

FOR SOWING NOW—

Rape, Rye, Tares or Vetches, Peas, Buckwheat, White Mustard, etc.
Some favour a combination of Rye and Tares, or Rye and Peas—at any rate, the Farmer and Grower of Market Produce will find it a payable scheme to investigate the question of Green Manuring.

We can quote all the lines mentioned above as desirable Green Manure Crops, and will send prices and samples to those wishing them.

EXHIBITION OF TERRA COTTA PANELS.

Modelled by the late George Tinworth.
NOW ON VIEW
AT BEARD, WATSON'S.

Those to whom the vivid emotional effects of bas-relief work appeal will find a keen pleasure in viewing the collection of Terra Cotta Panels which we now have on view in our Art Pottery Gallery.

They were all modelled by the late George Tinworth—a sculptor-preacher of forceful individuality and vigorous imagination.

In composition and execution they bear eloquent testimony to the genius of their creator—having a freedom from conventional grouping and treatment that is truly refreshing.

A unique selection of Royal Doulton Self-glazed Ware is also included in the Exhibition, pieces of exceptional merit and distinction by the late Miss F. Barlow, the late F. V. Marshall, the late K. Pearce, E. Simmance, M. E. Thompson, J. H. McLennan, and F. C. Pope, being displayed.

You are cordially invited to inspect.

Whatever a man's fancy may be in the meat line, he'll agree that is just great. Try your menfolk! Serve "REX" CAMP PIE to-night with salad. One tin will make a good meal for five. If the family consists of husband and wife only—there'll be enough left to cut into thin slices for "hubby's" sandwich lunch to-morrow, and then some for a midday snack for "wifey."

"REX" CAMP PIE

"REX" CAMP PIE is all meat prepared in an appetising way, by the peerless Rex Chefs. It comes surrounded by a clear firm jelly.

SUCCESS IN BUSINESS.

The underlying, essential element of success in business affairs is to follow the established laws of high-class dealing. Keep to broad and sure lines, and study them to be certain that they are correct ones. Watch the natural operations of trade, and keep within them. Don't even think of temporary or sharp advantage. Don't waste your effort on a thing which ends in petty triumph unless you are satisfied with a life of petty success. Be sure that before you go into an enterprise you see your way clear to stay through to a successful end. Look ahead. —Hubbard.

The foregoing maxims are indeed worthy of adoption by all who cater for the requirements of the public. High-class dealing, both from the ethical and material viewpoints, has ever been our aim, and the growth of our enterprise is sufficient evidence that our methods are correct ones. We are always "looking ahead," and anticipate our customers' wants, and opening up fresh avenues of service.

To-day we would particularly invite your attention to our new stocks of

LACES AND EMBROIDERY.

IF IT'S A NEW FASHION IT WILL BE AT SNOW'S,

AND IF IT'S AT SNOW'S
IT WILL BE INEXPENSIVE.

In one of the American States there is a law which says that a wife who has a spendthrift husband can go to court and have his earnings turned over to her. Apparently the poor man has no redress should his wife be the spendthrift.

When the good wife does her shopping at

SNOW'S

It is a safe bet she is no spendthrift. For Snow's is a Store for thrifty folk. That does not signify, however, that the woman of means will not be able to buy what she desires here also.

Under one roof at Snow's there are 20 highly-specialised "Shops." The result of this specialising is seen in the complete stocks, competent service, and keen values. Everything is personally selected by the heads of these "Shops" for a clientele, who have come to expect something better in values at Snow's. We shall not disappoint anybody.

SEVEN GOOD NIGHTS.

You can have seven good nights in every week with any of these NIGHTGOWNS from Snow's.

For as little as 4/11 you can have a MADAPOLAM NIGHTGOWN, with square neck and long sleeves. Neatly trimmed embroidery edging and insertion.

At 5/11 are other NIGHTGOWNS of fine Madapolam. They have long sleeves and V necks. Also some in Magyar shape, nicely trimmed Val. lace.

For 6/11 you may have a NAINSOOK NIGHTGOWN, in Magyar shape, trimmed Val. Lace and dainty embroidery Medallion or others of Calico, with long sleeves, open front, trimmed embroidery insertion and edging.

There are Nainsook NIGHTGOWNS, nicely trimmed Val. Lace and insertion. Also dainty Camisole Embroideries, in various designs. 7/11.

Other NIGHTGOWNS, in fine Nainsook or Madapolam, are trimmed Val. lace or dainty embroidery. There is large assortment of designs to select from in Magyar slip-over shape, or open front, and long sleeves. SNOW'S PRICE, 8/11.

At 9/11 there are Nainsook NIGHTGOWNS, daintily trimmed with Val. or Muslin embroidery and insertion, in many designs, including V necks, with ¾ sleeves; also long sleeves.

Every woman will like these NIGHTGOWNS, in fine Muslin or Nainsook. They are trimmed Malines laces, Val. or Torchon, and there are a large assortment of newest dainty designs to select from. SNOW'S PRICES, 10/6 to 21/.

BALL AND WELCH, LTD.,

The House for Reliable Goods at Moderate Prices.

EXCLUSIVE AND DISTINCTIVE.
OUR MODEL RACE MODES
IN GOWNS AND MILLINERY.

So much so that this week we are continuing our AUTUMN-WINTER DISPLAY of NEW SEASON STYLES, making a special feature of unusually Charming Modes in COAT ROBES, COSTUMES, SUITS, and MILLINERY, and of interest to women who are selecting their Race Frocking. Herewith we quote a few examples which, however, must be inspected if their real charm and worth would be appreciated.

CHIC RACE FROCKS WHICH YOU SHOULD SEE

PRICE 14 GNS.—BEAUTIFUL AMETHYST GABARDINE SUIT, the Coat very flared, ¾ length, with a smart belt bound with narrow Black Silk Braid. The Circular Skirt and Coat basque edge are trimmed with 4-inch Silk Military Braid, and the Collar is a new step of self Velvet. A charming note offers in the belt finish of two amethyst and white enamel circular buckles, and the tailoring is irreproachable.

PRICE 14½ GNS.—A VISITING or PROMENADE GOWN, in the new L'Ingenue One-piece, with simple Bebe Blouse and fully gathered Skirt, the whole built of a lovely pliable Black Velvet Panne. Two inset hip pockets are outlined, with rows of self buttons, and the neck is finished with a band and extension of skunk, a pretty lavalliere of gold cord and tassels completing a unique model.

PRICE 16½ GNS.—A FRENCH SUIT, in finest Putty Gabardine, made A LA RUSSE, with a perfect line in the long coat, which is finely pleated in front, and has a panelled back. Double waist straps linked on the hips, with gold bridle rings and muffle, Fitch Fur defines the collars and cuff edges.

OTHER MODELS,
PRICE 6½ TO 10 GNS.

RACE MILLINERY
FOR WEAR WITH YOUR GOWN.

PRICE 6 GNS.—PASTEL GREY AMERICAN DROOP SAILOR, with the new unwired undulating edge, crush crown, finished in front with a raised cabochon in gold and bronze tints, and French hand-made ribbon flowers.

PRICE 3 GNS.—AMERICAN PURITAN SAILOR, of Black Hatters' Plush, simply finished with a soft faille band and bow, and bound edge.

PRICE 57/6.—CURVED SAILOR, in Hatter's Plush, with square block crown, underlined with Black Panne, and trimmed with a smart buckle of Black and Silver, with a large Silver Bee and Motif.

WE PAY CARRIAGE on Drapery within the Commonwealth, but not on Carpets, Linos., Trunks, or Toys.

To prepare a Blancmange

Use only good, sweet milk—1½ pints to 2 ozs. of Wade's Corn Flour.

Blend the Corn Flour with a little of the milk, while bringing the rest to the boil.

Add the blended Corn Flour slowly.

Then, while stirring, boil the whole for 10 minutes.

Attractive as is this blancmange, yet it is only one of many dishes, equally delicious and equally suitable for family use that can be made with

WADE'S CORN FLOUR

Comparatively few mothers and housekeepers realize that the same packet of Corn Flour can fulfil so many purposes in light, wholesome cookery—and that Wade's Corn Flour is one of the Cook's best friends—whether the Cook be a celebrated chef, or the busy mother of a family.

On request to the manufacturers, Brown and Polson, Ltd., Newtown, Sydney, a booklet containing 46 simple, inexpensive recipes will be sent you. Write for it to-day.

Sole Selling Agents: Swift and Company, Ltd., Sydney.

"OSMANETTE"

Winter Slumber Suits for boys and girls

Made of "Osmanette," the ideal substitute for flannel. It's so satisfactory, and makes warm friends of all who wear it; so soft and pleasant to the skin; so refined in appearance, yet so strong and durable.

Slumber Suits, sizes 19 to 20, can be had from the leading drapers and storekeepers at the low price of 4/6 per suit (larger sizes, 4/11).

For your own protection and satisfaction, you must see the "Osmanette" Label in the neck of each Garment.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

A pony and galloway race meeting takes place this afternoon on the Londonderry racecourse.

Several useful gallops were recorded on the middle of the Randwick course proper on Saturday morning. Wolaroi defeated Firon several lengths over seven furlongs in 1m 36½s, and furlong distance was run by The Christian Brother and Fantarie in 1m 50s. Court Jester travelled a mile and a furlong in 2m 9s, comfortably. Maid of Ayr got over seven furlongs in 1m 30½s, and King Ritchie ran three-quarters of a mile in 1m 20s. Redfern went at three-parts pace for seven furlongs. Remnion showed he has recovered from his recent lameness by running half a mile with Nancy Sykes and Franzac in 52½s. Manna went nicely over five furlongs, and Woorak ran seven furlongs in 1m 36½s, and did his task well. King's Bounty spurted five furlongs in 1m 6s. Ulva's Isle and Fairway put a mile past in 1m 49s. Balarang did steady work on the inside track. D. F. Price sent True White and First Trim steady work.

ASCOT RACING CLUB.

So large was the attendance at the Ascot Racing Club's pony and galloway meeting on Saturday that it was difficult to move about with comfort in the betting ring. Owing to numerous scratchings, it was only necessary to divide one event. Fizzing, a 2 to 1 favourite, won the Ascot Handicap. Details:—

DAVID JONES'

The Thrift Campaign

and the

WINTER WARDROBE

10% Saving on Complete Equipments

IN connection with the general Thrift Campaign throughout Sydney, David Jones' have made it their business to assist the public in practical economy by producing necessities that fulfil fashion's newest demands, are carried out in materials which serve their purpose to the greatest advantage, and priced as moderately as is consistent with dependability.

Nearly all the merchandise displayed in our 28 windows this week is "made by David Jones.'" This gives the greatest possible advantage in your favor for thrift and economy, because of the moderate prices made possible by the savings effected in duty. Made-up apparel is subjected to much higher charges than raw materials, consequently imported goods cost you higher prices than those "made by David Jones.'"

Another important benefit is derived by keeping the extra money circulated in our own country instead of sending it overseas—this means more employment and better wages for Australians, and the ultimate building up and strengthening of Australia.

Therefore the most practical and greatest assistance to thrift is achieved by purchasing merchandise "made by David Jones.'"

MEDICAL, CHEMICALS, ETC.

I HAVE extracted thousands of hopelessly decayed Teeth, literally thousands. I have never once had a patient feel any pain. I guarantee absolute freedom from pain, or forfeit £5 to you. If you can find a patient whom I have hurt I will hand you £10. You see, my special offer is more than a promise—it's a solid cash guarantee, and in the course of long years it has never once been claimed. By my method not only is the extraction itself quite painless, but there is no painful pricking, no swollen gums, no broken teeth to fear. If your heart be weak, it won't be affected. And my method is excellent for all ages, from 2 years to 90.

DENTIST PHILLIP MOSES.

Even abscessed teeth can be extracted by my method, quite pain-free. When you buy a piano you demand a guarantee, don't you? Well, why not with teeth? I give a written guarantee, which states: If a tooth breaks off, or a plate or filling fails, I REPAIR IT FREE for 5 long years. An examination of your teeth and estimate of expense will cost you nothing, and involves no obligation to have work done. I will tell you candidly if treatment be necessary or not. Give me a cost-free and obligation-free call. Open till 6 p.m. daily (Sats. included); until 9 p.m. Fridays. DENTIST PHILLIP MOSES "DOES IT BEST," Orchard's Corner, George-st, opp. Railway.

ON THE LAND.

FROZEN MEAT TRADE.

As Australia is a live-stock producing country, depending entirely for the maintenance of the industry upon markets oversea, the future of the frozen meat trade is a matter of vital importance to us. Special interest, therefore, attaches to London reviews on the trade to hand. Regarding the prospects ahead, in their twenty-ninth annual review Messrs. W. Weddel and Co., Ltd., state:—

"The general character of the outlook has not changed much during the past year. The inherent strength of the statistical position throughout the world is as pronounced as ever, supplies available being hardly equal to the pre-war demand, while new markets have been created on the Continent of Europe, with the likelihood of still further markets opening up after the war. Even the certainty that fresh sources of supply in South Africa and Brazil are now being developed, and may ultimately add materially to the world's output of frozen and chilled meats does not necessarily affect the near outlook. What is much more likely to influence the immediate course of prices is the question of tonnage. With any addition to the refrigerated fleet, or any speeding up of the vessels now engaged in the trade, some expansion in imports may be reckoned upon, with an accompanying easing of prices; but failing some increase of tonnage, or if the submarine warfare becomes more effective, there are good grounds for anticipating that imports will remain short, and that, apart from any artificial regulation of prices, imported meat values will be maintained at a high level during 1917. In the event of the war being ended during the year, there would probably be a temporary reaction from that level, until distribution in the new European markets could be properly reorganised."

In their annual report the C.C. and D. Company write:—

"So long as the war continues no market forecast is of any value, but it is already easy to discern that the influence of the war upon the frozen meat trade will not cease on the restoration of peace. On the one hand, new countries of production have hastened to take part in the business, and the foundations of the trade are thereby being steadily strengthened, while on the other hand the demand for frozen meat will no longer be practically confined to the United Kingdom, and its market is being rapidly widened. The narrow margin between supply and demand, which was beginning to be apparent three years ago, will be accentuated by the ravages of war. The consumers in the United Kingdom are not likely for some time to come to enjoy the benefits of those gluts of supply which have been experienced in past years. The competition of Continental and possibly of North American markets, will prevent a reversion to the level of prices which were regarded as normal before the war. In the meantime it is possible that home prices have not reached their zenith. At the moment the tonnage necessary to transport such supplies is not available, even if the meat were. Nor is the home production in 1917 likely to reach the standard of 1916, and it seems safe to venture the opinion that measures of compulsory economy, more drastic than those which have so far been outlined, will be necessary if a further rise in prices is to be avoided. From the trade point of view, ignoring the difficulties of the immediate situation, the sound statistical position is full of encouragement for the future, and rapid development should follow the close of the war."

SHEEP ON THE COAST.

A correspondent, writing with reference to our report that wild dogs and dingoes are a serious obstacle to sheep farming on the coast, points out that American sheepmen have met with the same trouble, and forwards the following interesting recommendation which appeared in the "Farm Journal":—

Just four miles east of the farm in town I have 120 acres of wild land that I fenced with woven wire for sheep. The neighbours assured me that wolves and dogs would kill all the sheep I could bring out there, and they spoke from experience, as they had tried it, and had lost their flocks. Sheep beat the hired man when it comes to clearing brush land, so I tried it out the first year with goats—two billies, a few nannies, and some small kids. On several occasions we watched the billies put vicious dogs to flight. In the fall I brought them to the farm in town, and a large sheep-killing dog started in to stampede the goats, as was his custom with sheep, but he got the surprise of his life. Those two billies gave us a fine exhibition of team work. One would charge the dog while the other caught him as he side-stepped, and they would both tramp on him when he went down. At last the dog got going on high gear and got away. The only thing that saved that dog's life was speed. . . . I intend to stock up on sheep with goats for a bodyguard.

SOUTH COAST APPLES.

Continually the extensive area suitable for the production of high quality apples that is available in this State is demonstrated in a practical manner. As an instance, the Under-Secretary for Agriculture (Mr. Valder) has received some fine apples from Mr. G. A. Jones, which that gentleman has grown at Bomaderry, on the South Coast. The varieties are Jonathan and Rome Beauty, and they are a splendid sample. They were grown on light soil, and the orchard has also produced some fine crops of peaches and citrus fruit, although it is about as far south as the latter can be grown satisfactorily.

AGE OF CATTLE.

It was declared by a station manager, in giving evidence in the Supreme Court in Queensland, that animals that he would have called steers before the war were now regarded as young cattle. The practice had been to call an animal a steer until it was 12 months to 18 months old; after that it was called a young bullock, and after three years a grown bullock. The demand for stock is so keen that cattle are taken at a younger age than had been the practice. It appears that the war has created a scarcity of men in the west, and rotation musters are now undertaken in certain parts to overcome the short labour supply.

WHEAT GUARANTEE.

Mr. H. Manning writes:—The case for the wheat-growers, versus the community, is that the latter is in debt to the farmers of this State to the extent of £10,000,000 sterling. If the community paid farmers half the amount it owes them the latter would not require any guarantee. They would possess enough of their own capital to carry them through next harvest. As it is, they won't have sufficient, even after they receive the 2s 6d first payment on account of the 1916 crop now just harvested. During the past three years wheat farmers in this State have expended some £20,000,000 in the cultivation and harvesting of their crops. Of this amount, the wheat pool probably owes them about half. Allowing the farmers will receive 2s 6d first payment on, say 30,000,000 bushels f.a.q. grade wheat, portion of the 1916 crop, the indebtedness will be reduced to a balance of about £6,250,000. Of this amount £3,000,000 is the balance that was left due on the 1915 crop, and should have been paid last November. The executive of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, to my mind, should have asked for 4s 6d guarantee. The position of our wheat industry is not properly understood.

After allowance is made for the loss farmers sustained in 1914 it will be found that the average annual profit per acre, earned for the three years, will come to about 10/ or 11/, provided the wheat is all paid for in accordance with the quantity delivered into the pool on account of 1915 crop; and taking the 1916 crop as according to the estimate of the statistician. The fact that the pool is in arrears to the extent of £3,000,000 on the 1915 crop is owing to the bungle made by the Commonwealth Government in connection with the first year's purchase by the British Government. The Commonwealth and State Governments arranged the wheat pool, but failed to secure the ships when they had the chance. Ships were available, but the Government quibbled over the price of freight, forgetting it was war time, and it lost the chance of securing the ships at the time they were most wanted to lift the crop and take it away. Had they done this, the money would probably have been forthcoming, and farmers would have been placed in a position to balance the losses they made on the 1914 crop. As it is, these losses have not been balanced up to the present time.

Farmers have not received any profits for three years, two of which have been failures for many. The Government is under an obligation to the farmers. Its duty is to see that a price is provided that will give them the means of earning a minimum wage from an average yield of wheat. Four shillings for an average ten-bushel crop will only about enable a small farmer with, say, 200 acres of crop, to earn a profit equal to about 7/ per day for machinery, horses, and 12 hours' work by himself. It will not enable large farmers employing much labour to make ends meet. These would require either a larger yield or a better price than 4/. There should be little trouble in perfecting the present position so that farmers can be sufficiently assured, providing Great Britain requires next season's crop of wheat, and so long as she will continue to take our export surplus.

The main thing is to know definitely, for a start, whether the British Government is certain to want our wheat or not. Once definite information is obtained, in all probability the arranging of a sale for forward delivery at a definite price, of, say, 4/6 to farmers, would follow at an early date. There is not the least doubt that a forward sale would suit the Home Government best; and if made our Government would be in a position to guarantee farmers 4/ as the first instalment without any kind of risk whatsoever.

VALUABLE TREE.

DROOPING SHEOAK.

The drooping sheoak (Casuarina stricta) is being extensively propagated for use in the establishment of plantations of fodder trees, in which policy the Minister for Lands and Forests (Mr. W. G. Ashford) is offering free gifts of plants to the man on the land. The fodder value of this tree is not generally recognised, and the following account of its use by Mr. J. Feld, of Silverstone, Burragorang Valley, just received by the Forestry Commission, should be of great interest to settlers and stock-owners.

Mr. Feld says:—"From the middle of September to November 13, 1915, I was feeding 160 head of cattle on my place with drooping sheoak. I then took 100 head of the best-conditioned ones to Goulburn sale, and, as the drought continued, I still fed the remaining 60 on it until May, 1916. About the end of 1915 twelve cows calved, and they lived and reared their calves on this feed. In 1916 up to May was the severest summer I ever experienced here, and I never lost one beast fed in this way. The 100 I took to Goulburn all travelled there, and on one day over 20 miles of rough, burnt country. In addition to the cattle, I also fed 700 sheep in that drought, principally on the leavings of the cattle, and they all lived and did well. I have had about 35 years' experience, and, in my opinion, sheoak stands out as the best fodder tree in Australia. We have plenty of kurrajong here, and the sheoak is a lot before it as a fodder tree. There is no danger of blowing, and the more you give stock the better they seem to do, and even very poor stock will get into good health quickly on it. I have fed cattle on it that could not stand on their feet, and have yarded, fed, and watered them until they were strong enough to go about the rough hills. I hope the drooping sheoak will be grown extensively, for I am sure it will give satisfaction. It grows here on yellow, loamy soils and sandstone country, and drought does not affect it at all. The more the trees are lopped the better they spread out and produce new foliage."

DROUGHT RESISTANCE.

The Premier has received a report as to how far the recommendations of experts submitted some two years ago to deal with the question of minimising the effects of drought have been carried into effect. The chief recommendations of the agricultural section were that settlement should be extended into the central division of the State, and to the extensive mallee lands in the Western division east of the Darling; that additional demonstration farms should be established; that greater attention should be paid to the conservation of water and fodder in districts affected by drought; and that steps should be taken to prevent the wilful and unnecessary destruction of edible trees, as well as for fire prevention in forests.

According to the report submitted to the Premier, settlement is rapidly following the establishment of the demonstration farms established. A farm of 6000 acres has been established at Nyngan, an experiment farm of 9000 acres at Trangie, some 16,000 acres have been set apart as a share-farming area at Forest Vale, 28,000 acres are comprised in the Woodlands wheat area, while the Condobolin demonstration farm has an area of 1300 acres. Last year 800 tons of silage was conserved at Trangie and 300 tons at Condobolin, while the practice of conserving grasses and herbage in cheaply constructed pits was carried out, not only at these new experiment farms in the western areas, but at the older farms at Bathurst, Wagga, and Cowra.

Special provisions to prevent the wilful or unnecessary destruction of edible trees have been inserted in all leasehold tenures, while the forestry laws now provide for the prevention of fires on State forests, and the creation of firebreaks of green timber.

DESTROYING FRUIT FLIES.

The experiment carried out on Mr. John Tucker's orchard, on the Paterson River, to combat the fruit fly has met with great success. Sticky fly-papers were attached to the branches of the late peaches, the nails used also fixing pieces of ripe peaches to the trees. Great quantities of flies were destroyed, and the grower claims to have had no losses from their attacks.

THE SHEEP-FLY.

WARNING AGAINST SOLUTION

Mr. J. Laker Macmillan, F.C.S. writes:—In Saturday's issue of the "Herald," under the above heading, it is reported from Yass that the stock inspector, at a meeting of the pastures protection board, said: "Where arsenic was used in solution there was very little trouble, and that the solution most effective was made by boiling 4lb of arsenic and 4lb or 5lb washing soda in two gallons of water;" adding that it was not necessary to crutch the sheep if this solution was well mopped in with a mop about the size of an ale-bottle. The publication of the advice given may lead to much loss and trouble. It would be well, therefore, to as quickly as possible warn those interested not to use a solution of the strength given. If they do, and in the way directed, it will certainly not be necessary to crutch the sheep; the solution will do this, and more.

POTATO GROWING.

EXPERIMENTS ON THE HASTINGS.

The results of manuring for potato crops on the Hastings River go to show that those treated gave generally higher yields than the unmanured. The experiment plots were planted on Mr. J. W. Smith's farm under the supervision of Mr. Wenholz, Inspector of Agriculture. The season for potatoes was not very favourable owing to early dryness and excessive rain later on. They were planted on August 28, but the potato plants suffered from first to last from the attacks of ladybird beetles. Dry conditions during November checked incipient blight, as there was no sign of it on the tubers. The rainfall during growth was—September 86 points, October 315, November 169, and December 868; but most of the December rain was too late to benefit the crops. The yields were:—Manhattan (2cwt super per acre), 3 tons 4cwt 3qr; ditto (2½cwt P5 manure), 3 tons 7cwt 1qr; ditto (3cwt P4 manure), 3 tons 10cwt; ditto (no manure), 2 tons 3cwt 1qr; Up-to-date (3cwt P4 manure), 3 tons 10cwt 2qr; Satisfaction (3cwt P4), 2 tons 9cwt 3qr; Carman No. 1 (3cwt P4), 2 tons 17cwt 1qr; Early Manistee (3cwt P4), 3 tons 2cwt 2qr.

The smallest increase of the manured plots over the unmanured was, in the case of Manhattan, over a ton per acre, at a manurial cost of about 10s per acre. Although the complete manure—P4—gave the best yield, superphosphate alone was probably the most profitable manure. Besides coming out ahead of Manhattan, Up-to-date had the advantage in quality, as the "waxiness" of the former tends to be further accentuated in the stiffer soils. It is found that Manhattans are very unpopular in the local market even when of fair size. Carmen and Manistee were of most even size, and the percentage of marketable potatoes in the Up-to-date variety was smallest.

CITRUS CROP AND FRUIT FLY.

PENNANT HILLS.—A correspondent states: —The fruit-growing districts of Castle Hill, Dural, Glenorie, Kenthurst, and Arcadia are at the present time the unhappy possessors of quantities of second-crop oranges and mandarins, which, for some months, have been practically unsalable. These fruits are now falling, and the ground under the trees is littered with second-crop citrus fruit, which are badly infested with fruit fly. In the interests of the growers all this fly-infested fruit on the ground and on the trees should be picked up and burnt, otherwise the coming main crop will suffer. We will have trouble with our New Zealand trade, and our worst enemy, the fruit fly, will again get a grip on our industry. The remedy is in the growers' own hands. I would point out the urgency of destroying all second-crop fruit as early as possible, to make the gap between the second crops and main crops as wide as possible. It is unfair that some growers, through their careless, "go-as-you-please" methods should prove such a danger to their up-to-date, hard-working neighbours. It is a pity the fruit inspectors have not greater powers to enforce the regulations of the Fruit Pests Act.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

SCOURING AMONG CALVES.

"Hunter's Hill.—A simple remedy for scouring in calves is to add to the milk one fifth of its bulk of lime water. A cup of strong, black tea is said to be good. Another remedy is one to two ounces of castor oil, and one teaspoonful of laudanum. Four or five hours after the oil is given a teaspoonful of a mixture of one part salol and two parts of subnitrate of bismuth may be given in half a pint of milk.

THE HARLINGHAM CASE.

BY FLORENCE WARDEN.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

Mrs. Cawley smiled.

"Don't look so frightened. What I was going to say was that I have never met a single person to-day who has not been sure who did this, but—there are at least six persons whom I have heard mentioned as being undoubtedly the muderer or murderess."

"Oh," gasped out Nettie with a stared look.

Mrs. Cawley went on—

"I need not tell you that the whole place is buzzing with excitement. And it won't shock you, I dare say, to hear that it is a perfect godsend to the gossips."

"Beasts," said Nettie indignantly, below her breath.

The Vicar's wife looked at her with a twinkle in her eyes.

"My dear Miss Preston," she said, "if you yet understood the wholesale boredom engendered by life in this hole, you would forgive those people who, not knowing poor Lady Belford sufficiently well to regret her, are grateful to her for giving them something to stir them up a little."

"It's fiendish to look upon it like that, just as an excitement," cried the girl.

Mrs. Cawley looked at the fire demurely. She was too honest to deny outright that she herself felt considerable sympathy with the fiends.

"And what do you think, you and Mr. Cawley?" asked Nettie after a rather awkward silence.

"Well, it looks as if the French maid had done it, so I suppose she hasn't," said Mrs. Cawley.

Nettie shook her head.

"I met that horrible Tom Tully, the tramp, just now, as I was coming across the fields," she said. "And from what he said I gathered that he was being accused of the murder, and that he rather enjoyed the distinction. At first I thought he really had done it, as the cook saw him in the house yesterday. But from what he said himself, and from his staying in the neighbourhood instead of going away, and from what the doctor said—why, I—I don't think it was he, after all."

"There's a strong party of Tullyites in the town," observed Mrs. Cawley.

Nettie frowned.

"He asked me for money, and I've promised to give him a shilling if he comes here to fetch it in an hour's time."

"Why did you do that? He'll only get tipsy on it."

"Well, I didn't want to quarrel with him."

"When he comes I'll see him and send him away with some bread and cheese," said Mrs. Cawley.

But Nettie remembered what Tom had said about the Vicarage bread and cheese, and she was doggedly resolved to keep faith with the rascal.

"No. It's got to be the shilling I promised him," she said. "Do let him have it, please."

And she produced the coin and laid it on the table.

Mrs. Cawley smiled. Perhaps she guessed correctly the sort of circumstances under which the promise was given.

"Very well," she said. "I'll give it to him. Or you will send it out to him by one of the servants when he comes."

"I don't know whether I shall be back," said Nettie, preparing to rise. "I must take Spot back, and——"

"Well?"

Nettie turned to her impulsively.

"I am in a dilemma," she confessed. "When the doctor told me he knew who had done this awful thing, he warned me at the same time not to give any confidence to any one at Harlingham House. Now that is dreadful, isn't it? To feel that I am cut off from my friends. On the one hand I feel that I should like to—to warn them——"

Mrs. Cawley cut in quickly—

"Now what do you mean by that? You don't want to warn the murderer, do you? If it is certain, as Dr. Ridding says, that the man or the woman who killed the poor lady is in Harlingham House, why don't you leave things alone, and allow that person to be arrested and brought to trial? You don't want a murderess or a murderer to escape justice, do you?"

Nettie, who was on her feet, answered in a whisper—

"No, no, of course I don't. But——"

"The doctor is quite right. It is a dreadful thing for a young girl to be mixed up in an affair of this sort. The most cruel things are bound to get said, and it was because we saw the unfairness of the position you were put in that the Vicar and I asked you to come here."

Nettie felt cold and shivery.

"Why should it affect me?" she asked. "Mrs. Dunshaw admits that I am one of the only three people who could not possibly have done this thing."

Mrs. Cawley looked at her kindly.

"My dear Miss Preston," she said, "when a tragedy happens in a house where there are two men, two jealous women, and two pretty ones, you may be quite sure that scandal will find a mark."

"What scandal?" demanded Nettie indignantly.

"Why worry your head about it? I only want to back up the doctor in his advice to you not to have more to do with Harlingham House and the people in it than you can help just now."

But Nettie was growing angry as well as excited.

"Is it possible," she said, "that the wretches have already begun to tell hideous and lying stories about poor Rhoda and me? That they pretend we were jealous of one another? It's absolutely untrue. Absolutely. Or at least——"

She stopped. There was undoubtedly just a rag of truth in these slanders, and she knew that there must have spread from the servants' hall to the surrounding neighbourhood some ugly perversion of the fact that she herself had been on the point of leaving the house at short notice when the tragedy happened.

"What is it they say?" she demanded suddenly.

"Don't worry your head about it."

"I must. How can I sit still, wondering what wicked scandals are about connected with me? Tell me, tell me what you have heard."

"Well, just as you like. After all, you can't be anything but uncomfortable for a little while, and you may as well know the worst that is said. The stories go that Lady Belford was jealous of you, and that she was murdered either by her own husband or by Major Somers on your account, after a quarrel."

It was fortunate that Mrs. Cawley made this frank statement, for it was so preposterous that it turned the current of poor Nettie's thoughts from deep distress to something akin to a savage amusement.

"The fools! The imbeciles!" she cried, almost laughing in her amazement and disdain. "Why, Sir Hugh hardly knows whether I am dark or fair. And as for Major Somers—." She paused, and ended in a different tone: "He is absolutely incapable of any act that is not wholly chivalrous and blameless."

Mrs. Cawley looked at her steadily, for the words were a confession.

Nettie blushed.

"I like him very much," she said simply. "And but for this awful thing that has happened, why—." She paused, and ended quickly: "As it is, I can never speak to him again."

"Then the gossips had just a little bit of fact to go upon?"

"Oh, if you call that fact," said Nettie disdainfully. "But as for their having murdered my poor Rhoda, either Sir Hugh or the Major, neither the one nor the other was upstairs between luncheon time and the time when she was found."

"Well, well, don't get excited. You wanted to know what was being said, and I've told you. It is better you should understand the importance of keeping out of the way, and yet in the way, isn't it?"

"I suppose so. At any rate, I thank you for telling me about it," said Nettie. "And I see more plainly than before how kind it is of you to have me here."

"And you are still determined to go back now?" said Mrs. Cawley.

"Only to take the dog back," said Nettie. "Of course I shall keep to the road this time, and I will be here again in half an hour."

The Vicar's wife was very reluctant to let her go, but Nettie was not sorry to have an opportunity of thinking over by herself the revelations of the past few minutes.

Not that she could pretend to be absolutely taken by surprise on learning the sort of things that were being said. It was quite natural that, at such a time, the wildest rumours should spread, and that every one of them should be accepted as truth by some one or other.

But yet to learn how deeply she herself was involved in the ugly scandal was a fresh distress to her.

IN MEMORIAM.

McLAUGHLIN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie McLaughlin, who departed this life March 26, 1914, aged 58.

Every little word she uttered,
All her gentle little ways,
Have been for ever in our memory
Since the hour she passed away.
Through all her pain in life she smiled,
A smile of heavenly birth;
And when the angels called her home
She smiled farewell to earth.
And then she left two aching hearts
This world can never fill.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Lucy and James Hampson.

McLAUGHLIN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie McLaughlin, who departed this life March 26, 1914, aged 58.

A better mother never lived,
Nor one more true and kind.
Her equal in this weary world
We very rarely find.
Her heart was always in her home,
She toiled and did her best,
Until there came that sudden call,
When God called her to rest.

Inserted by her loving daughter and sons, Bid, Charles, John, and James.

McLAUGHLIN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie McLaughlin, who departed this life March 26, 1914, aged 58.

Pale death could never find another,
So true a friend, so fond a mother.
In all her actions she was kind,
But has left her loved ones all behind.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Mary and James Moodie

McLAUGHLIN.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie McLaughlin, who departed this life March 26, 1914, aged 58.

POFFLER.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life March 26, 1916.

All through her pain in life she smiled,
A smile of heavenly birth,
And when the angels called her home
She smiled farewell to earth;
And she left an aching heart
This earth can never fill.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, and grandchild, Jessie.

POFFLER.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother and wife, who departed this life March 26, 1916.

The golden gate was open,
A gentle voice said come,
And with a farewell word unspoken,
She gently entered home.

Inserted by her loving sons, Tom, Will, and Archie, and husband.

ROBERTSON.—In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, John A. Robertson (Jack), who departed this life to a higher life March 26, 1916, aged 32 years.

My sorrow was great, my loss hard to bear;
God knows I have lost my fond husband's care,
I mourn for him and miss him in silence unseen,
And dwell on the memory of days that have been.
Friends may think I have forgotten him
When at times they see me smile,
But they little know what a broken heart
Those smiles hide all the while.
For I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
One in hope, love, and feeling,
Death has parted us now, I am alone.

Inserted by his loving wife, Myrtle

ROBERTSON.—In sad and loving memory of our dear father, John A. Robertson, who departed this life March 26, 1916, aged 32 years.

So gentle and kind, how we miss his dear face,
Now we know that on earth we can ne'er fill his place.
Though asleep in the Saviour, where grief is unknown,
In sorrow and tears are his loved ones at home.

Inserted by his loving children, Jack, Willie, and little Gracie.

ROBERTSON.—To the memory of my dear brother, Jack, whose life's brief story closed March 26, 1916. Inserted by Janey, Gerty, Sid, and Fred.

MONDAY, MARCH 26.

THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION.

It is well to be reminded by the congratulatory speeches in the House of Commons that the importance of the Russian revolution is not to be measured entirely by its effect on the prosecution of the war. It was precipitated by the discovery of weaknesses which in peace time might have remained unobserved, just as the abolition of serfdom and the foundation of the Duma might never have been obtained but for failures in the Crimea and in Manchuria. But the revolution was rendered possible by exertions and sacrifices in time of peace, which were intended not for the destruction of Germany, but for the establishment of a new life in Russia. The foundations of the recent changes in Russia were very different from those of the French revolution, to which Mr. Bonar Law compares them. They are to be found in the labours of men and women of all ranks in life, and of varying orders of intelligence, united by a common hatred of injustice and love for their fellowmen. Just as we do not forget the soldiers who fell at Thiepval and Pozieres when we welcome the Allied advance, so we should not forget the unsuccessful leaders of revolt in Russia when we congratulate the Duma. Many of the earlier revolutionaries fell into insanity through their punishment, many more spent their lives in exile; all suffered. Like their successors of to-day, they were often encouraged by signs of goodwill on the part of the Court, but invariably their hopes were disappointed by some sudden reaction. Yet, as far as we can judge them from their articulate minority, there was never any sign of repentance or doubt of the future of their country. In this war the Russian soldier has given countless examples of patriotism by hopeless struggles against equipment and numbers, but there is nothing in history to excel the patriotism of these pioneers of revolution who were ready not only to die for Russia, but to live in misery for the sake of her future. The realisation of their ideals will come in the Russia which survives the war if the revolution fulfils its promise. But from the very beginning the Russian armies have been fighting for the ideals of the early revolutionaries against their most consistent enemy. In the years between 1870 and 1914 German statesmen constantly emphasised the sympathy which unites two absolutist Governments, both interested in keeping men of their own race from a share in the government, and in oppressing alien nationalities. The revolution is said to have been followed by sympathetic risings in certain German towns, and by their prompt repression. Both statements are probably true. But, after the war, it will be much more difficult to put down popular risings than it is in the highly organised state of to-day. Germany will then find that her statesmen were quite accurate in suggesting a common interest between the two absolutist countries.

The people of Australia have an especial reason for joining in the British message of congratulation. The enterprise, which was so glorious and so costly to our armies, had for its main object the relief of the Russians, then hard pressed on their Armenian frontier. The Gallipoli expedition was a splendid failure, if it is judged as an attempt to reach Constantinople. But if it is estimated by its influence on the movements of Russia it was a splendid success. If there had been no diversion the Turks, instead of spending a year massacring Armenians, would have been able to march into their former territory as they had intended to do before the battle of Sarykamish, and perhaps to reach the Black Sea. In that case there would have been no capture of Erzerum to hearten the Allies at the beginning of 1916, and no conquest of Armenia to attract Turkish armies from Europe. Australians are deeply interested in Russia as the future holder of the Dardanelles and as the possessor of abundant undeveloped markets. But they must all recognise that the future of the country, as well as the success of the revolution, depends on the co-operation of civilians with the army. A drawn battle would leave Germany supreme in the East, and German ideas still powerful. The reconstruction after the war would be dominated by belief in autocracy, in the subordination of the individual to the State, and in the supremacy of the soldier. There has been throughout the revolution the apparent danger of a party forgetting the possibility of a German success, and deciding to abandon everything else in order to carry out its political schemes immediately. Happily the statements of the military leaders suggest that that danger is not as serious as was feared. There seems to be a close sympathy between Ministers and generals, including those who have contributed most to the success of the Russian arms. The old idea that only absolutist Germany could be victorious has been revived by the rumour of a break-through on the northern front. But the rumour has been denied, and there remains only the fact of the German retreat, and the threat of a new attack by von Hindenburg. If the Germans do everything according to time-table, they have arranged their last movements badly. Victory just now would have helped the peace party among the revolutionaries; if it is to be postponed until a more convenient season it will find the leaders who have made the revolution firmly in control of Russian policy.

THE NATIONAL VICTORY.

The victory of the National party at the polls on Saturday is a victory for sane government on well-ordered and progressive lines. It is an evidence that while the State is thoroughly democratic in its thought it abhors the extremist on either side, and that while it will not suffer government from those who would mark time it at the same time has no confidence in the men who would destroy our institutions, and out of the ruins seek to erect an anarchic State, to be governed not by the people's representatives but by a coterie without responsibility selected from a number of self-constituted leagues. In the late Parliament, before the extrusion, the Political Labour League claimed 50 members under its whip. In the new Parliament, as far as can be calculated at present, after allowing liberally for the second ballot seats, not more than 35 members will suffer the whip of the league. The National party will number 55. Of the 19 members who were extruded by the Executive of the Labour leagues, nine have been returned as Nationalists. On the other hand, three men who accepted the rule of the Political Labour League executive have been defeated—at Hurstville, at Waverley, and at Wagga. A Nationalist, Mr. Waddell, at Lyndhurst, has lost his seat to a Political Labour League representative, unless absent votes should alter the small majority. Industrial centres such as Newcastle and Wickham were loyal to their representatives who put their country before shibboleths. Purely farming constituencies such as Castlereagh, Cootamundra, Liverpool Plains, Murray, and Murrumbidgee, which had been successfully wooed by Labour at previous elections because they believed that the Liberal party was not alive to the interests of the rural community, have refused to accept the dictation of the extremists, and have been content that power should rest in the hands of Mr. Holman.

The National Government will meet Parliament assured of a good working majority, a majority larger than any with which government has been carried on for the last six years. The country can thus count upon stability in its politics for the life of the Parliament—three years. Such assurance of stability is what is needed for the industrial progress of the country. We have been feeling the stress of war severely in the last six months. There has been a curtailment of business and of enterprise, but although the greater part of that curtailment was due to uncertainty as to the future of the war, there is not the slightest doubt that no inconsiderable part of the falling off in business was due to the added uncertainty of the political situation. With the rancour which the referendum on conscription had raised those who guide our industrial affairs received no encouragement to take risks as to the future. Except where the way was absolutely clear they refused to embark on ventures. Now that we know exactly where we stand this sagging of our industrial life will receive a check. We cannot expect all at once a recrudescence of business activity. It must be some time before the stream loses its sluggishness, but we may safely say that business men look far more hopefully on the situation to-day than they did a week ago. So, too, will the thoughtful wage-earner not be dissatisfied, though he may have voted against the Government. Many, no doubt, voted for a Political Labour League candidate not because they wholly approved of his doctrines, but because it was the only method of obtaining a strong Opposition which is necessary to efficient working of government by party. To the finances of the country also stable government is necessary. The finances, to state the case mildly, are by no means in a flourishing condition. The revenue may be satisfactory. But the revenue covers very little more than the cost of administration of the country. Money is urgently needed to finish works which have been initiated with a lavish hand, with the hope that, in spite of the war, the money would be found somehow to carry them on. Now the difficulty is to find the money, but, whatever the difficulty is now, it would have been insuperable with Mr. Storey and his henchmen seated on the Treasury benches. Other than ordinary means which have been suggested in some quarters would have brought in their train disaster, whose effects the wage-earner would have felt the earliest.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Nothing like actual experience gives us adequate knowledge of the effect of any reform or attempted reform. Daylight saving has been discussed for years in Great Britain and here. The great argument used in its advocacy was that it would enable the people to spend more of their lives out of doors, that it would enable them to devote more time to recreation in the open air, and at the same time it would save somewhat in artificial lighting. In Australia we have now had experience of it for twelve weeks. The clocks were put back to standard time yesterday. It may be at once admitted that the seeker after outdoor amusements did obtain all the benefits that were promised him if we consider him merely as an amusement-seeker. But he is also a worker, and as a worker in New South Wales he objected strenuously to it. The beaches were crowded each evening. But in place of going to bed at the hour which the clock told us we should go, most of us did not sleep till our bodies told us the hour had come, which was the natural hour, and not the artificial hour. So as we had to rise by clock time in the morning we found that we lost an hour's sleep. Many workers whose labours were long distances from their homes found that even in the summer time they commenced their journey before daybreak. Housewives found it added to their burdens. Children rebelled against going to bed at clock time. They would not sleep while it was yet light. The rural districts in this State were frankly antagonistic to the reform, and largely would not recognise it. A committee is to take evidence as to the effect of the measure, and, judging by the opinions which have been freely voiced here, that evidence will be unfavourable to a continuance.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson will arrive at Admiralty House on April 3, where they will be in residence for some weeks.

When in New South Wales the Governor-General will take the opportunity of fulfilling a postponed engagement to visit the Clarence Rivers district, and to open the Grafton Agricultural Show.

His Excellency the Governor arrived in Sydney from Sutton Forest on Saturday morning, and returned by the afternoon train.

Sir W. Ellison Macartney, the retiring Governor of Tasmania, was accorded a valedictory by the citizens of Hobart at the Town Hall on Friday. His Excellency subsequently held a reception, and in the evening he was entertained at dinner by Ministers.

Captain Percy Dunningham, a member of St. Andrew's Cathedral choir, has been mentioned in despatches for the second time for work in Sinai.

Concerning the death in France of Mr. W. S. Rowan, military secretary of the Y.M.C.A., which was recently reported by cablegram, advice has now been received that while superintending Y.M.C.A. work on a dark night in the forward area he was knocked down and killed by a heavy motor transport lorry. His body was not picked up for some hours later, and it was subsequently buried in one of the long graves near the firing line. Before taking up Y.M.C.A. work, Mr. Rowan was a student for the Presbyterian ministry. He had had several remarkable escapes from death in France.

WAR-SAVING CERTIFICATES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Although the prospectus of war-time saving certificates was advertised by the Commonwealth Bank on Saturday, the Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. J. R. Collins), announced that the necessary forms for application, etc., would not be in the hands of the banks or money-order offices for some days.

THE ELECTIONS.

PREMIER ON THE RESULTS.

The Premier, Mr. Holman, commenting last night on the results of the polling, said: "I feel that the most important aspect of the overwhelming victory which the National forces won yesterday is the justification it affords for the formation of the National party. This involved the union of previously independent forces, and until the union had been submitted to the popular judgment, to obtain its sanction, it was possible to suggest that it had no right to govern. The short delay in obtaining this sanction was unavoidable under the special circumstances which attended the regular closing time of Parliament, and the fact that this delay was sought gave further ground for attack. The popular verdict, however, when obtained, is conclusive. The great majority of the people have ranged themselves behind the idea of the further carrying on of the affairs of the State by a stable Government.

"Two or three points it seems to me are essentially important, and need to be noted. The first is that the National party has gone to the country with a definite constructive policy. We have not relied on a programme of empty platitudes or mere assertions of superior patriotism, but we have enunciated a policy. That must now be taken as definitely approved of by the electors, and the Government will accept the figures of this election as a definite instruction to them to give effect to it. It will not be a negative policy, and those who value rapid democratic progress need not be at all alarmed as to the character of the legislation which will be introduced during our term of office.

THE NO-CONSCRIPTION CRY.

"The next point upon which it seems to me the election decisions are important is the complete exposure of the hypocrisy of the no-conscription cry. It is difficult to speak on this point with the courtesy which is due to defeated opponents. The attitude of those who took up this cry was one of such calculated and conscious mendacity that if the ordinary amenities of political warfare are abandoned in discussing it the responsibility must rest on those who introduced those poisoned weapons into the warfare. The whole cry was a lie. There can be little doubt that it was deliberately adopted. Mr. Doyle, for example, is reported to have stated that every member of the National party was signing a pledge in favour of conscription. He has been directly challenged with the report of this statement, and called upon to affirm it or disavow it. With a readiness of tergiversation which appears to attend the official Labour movement like a curse, Mr. Doyle has done neither. He has neither admitted nor denied. He has been prepared to take any advantage—if advantage there were—of the untrue allegation, and has sought, while suggesting the falsehood, to escape from the responsibility of reaffirming it.

"The case of Mr. John Storey is hardly less incomprehensible and unfortunate. He has asserted upon a dozen platforms that the success of the National party meant the authorisation by the people of New South Wales of the introduction of conscription, and the solemn rescinding by them of their decision of October 28 last against it. Mr. Storey has said this repeatedly, emphatically, deliberately. The National party has now succeeded. It already has a great majority of the seats, with probably still more to come in the final counts. Does Mr. Storey say to-day that the decision of New South Wales against conscription is abandoned, and that the Federal Government are now authorised by the popular judgment to introduce it? While I hesitate to answer for anything Mr. Storey may say or do under the new and extraordinary circumstances in which he finds himself, I think I may venture to declare that Mr. Storey will in this connection say nothing of the kind. He will, he must, assert that the victory of our movement has nothing to do with the opinion of the people on the referendum question, and that the overwhelming decision of yesterday is one which we ourselves made by our own declarations a decision on purely State affairs, not bearing in any way upon the conscription issue. He will say this to-day and all the pallid young heroes who have been found cowering in the anti-conscription movement of the last six months will say it too, if necessary, with even greater vehemence. They will say it because they want to save their skins, and he will say it because he wants to win their approval. And for once Mr. Storey and these heroic backers will be absolutely correct in saying it. The decision has nothing to do with conscription; it does not reopen the question; it does not give any new decision upon it. While this will now be apparent as daylight to the P.L.L. executive and the industrialist section and those who believe that those two bodies should govern the country, up to the closing hours of the polls yesterday this plain and self-evident proposition was vociferously denied by every one of them.

"I feel, therefore, I should take this opportunity of stating again, now that a hard battle has been fought and won, that the first act of the Government is to repeat its solemnly-made declaration during the campaign that it will neither aid in the reintroduction of conscription nor support in any way any other power that attempts to do so. Further, it will resist by every means in its power any attempt to reopen the question settled by the recent referendum.

"DESPICABLY UNGENEROUS TACTICS."

"Miserable as the display made by the supporters of the official Labour party has been, such small measure of success as they have achieved has been accomplished by the employment of the most despicably ungenerous tactics. They have not hesitated directly to attack the seats of two absent soldiers. Happily these tactics brought no success. Unfortunately the attacks on the ex-Premier (Mr. M'Gowen) and the Speaker were more successful. These are successes of a class from which the party might well pray to be spared. In each case those two leading public men have succumbed—only temporarily, as I hope and believe—to attacks from those members of the community whom they have for the last 20 years done most to assist and protect.

LARGE POLLS FOR NATIONALISTS.

"The figures themselves are not yet complete, and the measure of analysis to which they lay themselves cannot be fully entered upon. The city figures, however, are complete. These include 40 out of the 90 seats, and they present some characteristics which are sufficiently striking for comment. In the first place, it can be laid down with two or three exceptions that in the electorates where the voting was very small the official Labour candidates were returned, and that in the electorates where the voting was very large National candidates were returned. There are only three exceptions to this—St. Leonards, where a total vote of 5500 was polled, returned a Nationalist; while Botany, with 9000, and Granville, with 12,000, each returned an official Labour man. But, if we take the city seats in the order of the total numbers voting, they stand as follows:—

Darling Harbour	4200
Belmore	4200
Alexandria	5000
King	5000
Surry Hills	5000
St. Leonards	5500
Camperdown	5700
Newtown	6000
Phillip	6000
Balmain	6500
Rozelle	6500
Glebe	6700
Petersham	6750
Redfern	6800
Annandale	7000

"These are the whole of the seats in the metropolitan area in which less than 7000 votes in all were polled by the candidates of the National party and the official Labour party, omitting the small figures of the third candidate where there was one. Of these only two have returned Nationalist candidates. The whole of the others have returned official Labour candidates.

"Working from the other end of the scale we have the total numbers of votes polled in the following order:—

Hurstville	12,500
Granville	12,000
Randwick	11,500
St. George	10,700
Gordon	10,200
Drummoyne	9,000
Dulwich Hill	9,000
Botany	9,000
Canterbury	8,700
Burwood	8,500
Parramatta	8,500
Ashfield	8,000

"Of those twelve, only three seats are held by official Labourites, and of those three Mr. George Cann, the member for Canterbury, has been elected as much by the votes of the Nationalists as by those of his own supporters. It may really be said that, in the twelve seats casting the higher number of votes, only two have returned Labour candidates.

"Further, there is a marked tendency towards a shrinkage of the individual majorities of the returned official Labour members, as compared with the majorities cast for Labour candidates in the same seats over their opponents three years ago. This means that the Labour candidates, even where they have succeeded, have not made so good a showing against their National opponents as they did three years ago against the Liberal candidates of that date. It is obvious, even in purely industrialist centres where the success of the official Labour candidates was a foregone conclusion, a large mass of opinion which has voted Labour in the past is supporting the National cause to-day.

PARTY EQUILIBRIUM.

"It looks to me as though we had got the real equilibrium between the Nationalist and industrial forces. When the National party was formed the industrialists were left in possession of a few seats which they could not permanently hold. These have in this election fallen to our candidates. On the other hand, certain members who accepted the National programme were at the time representing purely industrial strongholds which they could not retain. These seats have naturally fallen to the industrialists. We have, therefore, lost Messrs. M'Gowen, Morrish, Meagher, Hollis, Griffith Crawford, and Burgess, with Messrs. Griffith and Page, who were sympathetic independents. But those experiences have not been wholly on the one side, and, while the industrialists have obtained several seats, those of Messrs. Toombes, Fingleton, Boston, and, apparently, Brown, have passed over to the Nationalist candidates. A dividing line has clearly been drawn, and we may anticipate that for many years, except for the slow changes caused by developments and by the growth of population, the bulk of the seats falling respectively to the two parties will remain with them.

"It is too early yet to attempt any final estimate of the arrangement of forces. Apparently, at this moment, we have 54 certain seats, and our opponents 32. That is, assuming that Mr. Burgess is defeated at Burrangong, on which point I have not been able to obtain information to-day. Four seats must still be regarded as in doubt. In these four our chance is excellent in at least three of them.

"Whatever the ultimate figures may be it is apparent that the result of the election has been to put the official Labour party into the position which has been so long occupied by its prototype in Victoria. In Victoria a strictly industrialist Parliamentary party, such as has at length been achieved after the efforts of the last twelve months in New South Wales, has been in existence practically from the beginning. That party has succeeded in securing and holding, with slight fluctuations, roughly one-third of the seats in Parliament. It has been in office for one day in the last 20 years, and seems likely to pass another similar period before it achieves another similar day. In New South Wales, thanks to the adoption of entirely different tactics by the old Labour party, and the invitation into its ranks of all who could do its work, whether they bore the brand of pure industrialism or not, a majority was secured in our House, and six years of Government registered. The Labour party has resolved to revert to the Victorian model, and it has practically at the first trial secured almost an exact reproduction of the Victorian result, roughly, one-third of Parliament. This is about the number which can be secured in States like this by any purely industrialist organisation.

"The National Government will now enter upon its career fortified by the strongest expression of popular approval which has fallen to the lot of any party in New South Wales since 1894. Its supporters may depend upon its applying itself to its task with both zeal and energy."

MR. J. STOREY NOT SATISFIED.

Mr. John Storey did not, when interviewed yesterday, express unqualified pleasure at the results of the elections.

"At the outset," he remarked, "I wish to express regret at the loss of my old mates in the persons of Captain Toombs and Mr. Boston and Mr. Fingleton. They are three very sturdy democrats, and our party will miss them very much. Speaking of my own contest, I think I can fairly regard the results as highly satisfactory. The slight reduction of my majority is accounted for because of the fact, which is generally known, that about 500 men are on active service, while a large number of men engaged on munition work have also left the district. The majority of these men were known to be my supporters. The fact that we have reduced Mr. Ashford's majority from something like 1200 to about 250 speaks for itself. Mr. Hall also has had his majority very considerably reduced, and the same applies to Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. James. While, therefore, our party has not won, the other side cannot reasonably claim to have achieved any substantial victory, seeing that four Ministers have fared worse than at the last elections. Mr. Holman maintains about the same majority as in the case of the previous election. While we have not achieved the results that we expected, it would appear, from the figures so far available, that we have 25 candidates whose return is a certainty, together with three soldiers, three of whom we know positively are our way, while Mr. Carmichael, in view of his experiences with the Liberal party in the past, could not, by any stretch of imagination, join them. We may safely assume, therefore, that he will be with our party. This gives us 29 seats. There are four electorates in which we are leading, and there are two second ballots in which we are interested, while Mr. Gardiner, of Newcastle, promised the people that, if elected, he would support our people. Altogether we are, so far as can be seen at present, certain of 34 seats, while, with interests in two second ballots, we look forward to 36. The election, of course, was fought out with a great deal of bitterness, but, on the whole, there was no worse manifestation of this than at previous elections. The fact that better provision was not made for people on the railway works in the electorate of Condobolin to exercise the franchise is regrettable. From information at our disposal it appears that there are on the works there from 500 to 600 voters, for whom no provision had been made. It appears also that they had to travel 25 miles in order to record their votes, and before doing so had to take out life policies; this they had to do before being permitted to travel on a railway which is only half completed. Soldiers in Melbourne appear also to have been given very little consideration as regards voting. Some bungling appears to have occurred there. I have no information to lead me to believe that it was done deliberately, but the fact of the bungling having occurred seems to have given very considerable assistance to the other side.

"With the results, taking them as a whole, I am not exactly satisfied. I thought we would have done considerably better; but, in view of all the circumstances, I suppose one has to be satisfied. The Press of New South Wales was against us, and if we used the conscription cry on our side, it can safely be said that the other side used, with a great deal more effect, the I.W.W. bogey and our alleged questionable loyalty. These things, I think, lost us thousands of votes. In any case, the hollowness of such statements is borne out by the large number of workers who have gone to the war, and the work generally that has been done by Labour supporters in connection with the war."

STATEMENT BY MR. BEEBY.

Mr. G. S. Beeby, Minister for Labour and Industry, stated:—"The figures speak for themselves. Every Minister has been returned, and the Government will have a majority of at least 25. The country has definitely declared for sound progressive government during the next three years. The most astonishing feature of the election was the effect of the conscription cry in the country districts. There is no doubt that the P.L.L. Party, by the introduction of this foreign issue, won four country seats which under normal conditions would have gone to the Nationalists. In the Wagga district alone I know of some hundreds of voters who were turned during the last week by the persistent use of this cry, which was particularly noticeable in the case of isolated farmers, who could only be reached by personal canvass. The surprise of the election, to me, was the defeat of Mr. McGowen. I felt confident all along that the Redfern electors would never turn down the veteran leader after his long record of honest and faithful service. The Government must face the three most critical years in the affairs of this State. The financial position, the industrial problem, and the aftermath of the war will call for the earnest co-operation of all parties, and it will be interesting to observe whether Mr. Storey has any control over his followers, and will be able to induce them to co-operate with other sections of Parliament in dealing with the big questions which must demand our attention during the next three years."

MR. DOYLE'S COMMENTS.

Mr. J. W. Doyle, member-elect for Phillip, and president of the P.L.L., says he is in no way elated over his coming entry into Parliament, and that he consented to stand for the electorate only out of a feeling of duty and of principle.

Commenting last night on the results of the elections in his capacity as president of the P.L.L., which position he has occupied for about 12 months, Mr. Doyle said:—"The result of the contest in my electorate has not occasioned me any surprise. From the first time I secured the selection ballot I felt confident of success. The contest was keenly and bitterly fought, not from my side, but from the other side. I anticipated that between 70 and 80 per cent. of the electors would exercise the franchise, but I believe about 66 per cent. voted. Had the remainder of the electors voted I am sure my majority would have been much larger. I have no hesitation in saying that Mr. Meagher polled his full strength, and that every available vote that he could possibly get was fought for. I am rather surprised at the result of the elections generally. I attribute our losses to the hostility of the Press and the raising of the I.W.W. cry and the sectarian bogey, while another factor was the financial support behind the so-called National party.

"Now that the fight is over I challenge any man—Mr. Holman or any of his followers—to prove that we tried in any way to raise the sectarian issue, and that we were in any way connected with the I.W.W. I challenge them also to name any single individual prominent in the Labour movement who was connected with the I.W.W. To a certain extent I am rather pleased at being in opposition. The elections will enable us to consolidate our forces, and when the next appeal is made to the electors I have no doubt as to the results. In connection with the Wagga seat, I did not see any announcement that Mr. Beeby had resigned his seat in the Legislative Council. If Mr. Beeby did resign a public announcement would have been gratifying. I challenge Mr. Holman to prove that we opposed the seat of any man actively engaged in the firing line at the front. They, on their part, opposed one of our men in the firing line—Captain Connell. Mr. Weaver said at Willoughby that I had taken the platform on the Domain with Reeves, of the I.W.W., prior to the arrest and conviction of the last-named. Now that Mr. Weaver has been returned, I want to know if he intends either to deny or withdraw the statement, or to apologise. The challenge I have already made in respect to this statement still holds good. It is to be hoped, by the way, that the promise that Mr. Hall has made will be observed. This was to the effect that if his party were returned it would carry out the policy outlined by Mr. Holman at Gundagai, and which was the Labour policy. It is to be hoped that they will bring into effect the programme which they failed to make operative during their six years' regime as the alleged Labour Government."

INTERVIEW WITH MR. MEAGHER.

"I have no excuse to make," said Mr. Meagher yesterday. "I have a committee whose loyalty and devotion to me, in spite of subtle influence—in spite of insult, boycott, terrorism and even physical violence—I shall ever remember. 'Tis not in the power of mortals to command success;' they certainly deserved it.

"I have been beaten by a two to one majority in a constituency which gave the most marked negative vote against conscription of any constituency in the State.

"Whilst the aggregate vote in West Sydney Federal constituency was, Yes 7059, No 17,873, the portion which comprised the Phillip constituency voted Yes 1596, No 7632.

"To have reduced this vote down to two to one amidst a saturnalia of sectarianism and a veritable hurricane of hate I feel is no mean performance.

"I was fully aware of the stupendous task, but I could not leave it in the mouth of any slanderer to say I was scared out of any constituency for fearlessly doing my duty in answer to my country's call.

"Even as these adverse figures stood, I was confident of surmounting the difficulty and placing the flag of victory on the position but for the intrusion of the foetid issue of sectarianism.

"The first blast of this in the campaign in a constituency largely Roman Catholic was the assiduous dissemination of a report that I had insulted the administrator of St. Benedict's Church by refusing to see him when he called at the Town Hall in relation to rates on St. Benedict's property.

"Then I had the strange spectacle of alleged Labour men who, 12 months before, were singing my praises for bringing a plank of the Labour platform into operation (taxation on unimproved land values) helping to condemn me in mock indignation at increased rates on St. Benedict's Church. Still the hurricane increased in velocity by a wicked concoction that I caused a reverend gentleman, who was an active opponent of conscription, to be removed from St. Benedict's.

"The 'Catholic Press' a few weeks back contained an account of a public farewell to the rev. gentleman, and, although the member for the district, I had not even the courtesy of an invitation, but a gratuitous insult instead. The newspaper reports: 'Dr. Twomey said that the memorable event of the year 1916 (conscription) had left a lasting impression on the people of St. Benedict's. He was not sorry to see there were no political humbugs there that night.'

"I have no hesitation in saying that if I was Grand Master of the L.O.L. I could not have had more venom and malevolence projected against me, than I have experienced these last few weeks—and, in many cases, frenzied epithets applied by individuals out of whose homes I have taken the bailiffs, and in other cases the bread they eat obtained from positions they pestered me to get.

"In this extraordinary campaign I have been engaged throwing germicide on seething concoctions by day, and combatting hostile hordes by night—and all because I exercised my freedom of judgment in a matter the determination of which largely affects the fate of Christianity and civilisation.

"If my defeat has brought joy and satisfaction to sectarian zealots, I can assure them that the consciousness of putting up a chivalrous fight against malevolent odds leaves me a serenity of conscience which will be permanent when their delirium of triumph has vanished.

"After strenuous years, I can enjoy a rest, and then come back to the track, and make fresh records for democracy.

"As late as August last the members of the Labour Council and P.L.L. executive placed on record congratulations to me as a Labour man and democrat. Before October I was a little demi-god, after October I was a demon. If time was put back, and the October issue reviewed, I would act again precisely in the same way—for Empire, Liberty, and Humanity—if I lost 50 seats.

"When I look at the empty chairs in the homes of the people of this State, left by brave lads who gave their lives that we may live, I look on the sacrifice of my political life at Phillip as small and paltry, and I rejoice to know that after this hurricane of hate from the worst elements in society my spirit of loyalty is unconquered and unconquerable."

MR. T. I. CAMPBELL'S SUMMARY.

Mr. T. I. Campbell, the general secretary of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, commenting yesterday afternoon on the result of the elections, so far as the figures then disclosed, said:—"We feel that the position is extremely good. Mr. Holman, as a campaigner, has been at his best, and has given material help in many centres which seemed, at times, to be in doubt. Our association feels that the lesson of the election will not be lost to the National Government, and that among the early measures which will be dealt with will be electoral reform, providing for preferential voting, and, I hope, for proportional representation. Burrangong has been lost to the National cause, I think, because of the absence of preferential voting. I am sorry to say that Mr. Burgess, as a candidate, was not acceptable to many sections of the producers, with whom he had been at enmity for years past. The time was too short for old sores to be forgotten, and the result was that many who were opposed to the P.L.L. refused to cast their vote at all, and in this way the seat was lost to us. I am pleased to find that our branch in Murrumbidgee proved their loyalty to the cause, although Mr. M'Garry was not acceptable to many of them. The returns still to come will, I am sure, add to Mr. M'Garry's lead. Altogether, I think that the National campaign was well conducted, and that, by his untiring energy and magnificent leading, Mr. Holman helped materially to ensure the success that has been ours. Mr. Trethowan did good work in Gloucester and Tamworth, and Mr. Townsend, of Gilgandra, and Mr. Hedley Gelston, from Queensland, did magnificently for Mr. Manning, at Albury.

"In Namoi, Mr. Wearne's position was extremely satisfactory. He would be a decided acquisition to the House. Although the Lachlan figures were very even, Mr. Buttenshaw's position was regarded with composure by the association. Results had to come from the outlying centres, and these places were decidedly progressive. Mr. Bourke and Mr. Perkins seemed to have failed for Yass and Monaro, respectively, but he (Mr. Campbell) knew that the conscription issue had been unscrupulously used in these districts. Macquarie had been regarded as safe for Mr. M'Leod, but, apparently, it had gone past recovery now. On the other hand, the loss of Mr. Waddell's seat was not a surprise. He had adopted a vacillating attitude on many matters in which farmers were particularly interested.

"It is certain now that the National Government will secure a good working majority," concluded Mr. Campbell, "and that progressive legislation, in accordance with the platform promulgated during the election, will come about. It will have the right to a long, uninterrupted term of office, and in that time will do much to make its return at the next election even easier still."

NEW MEMBERS.

Mr. R. Weaver, the elect of Willoughby, is an aggressive fighter, with youth on his side and unbounded energy. He was formerly in business at Forbes, Condobolin, and Narrandera, being an alderman of the latter municipality. Some years ago he made a tour through South Africa and Argentina, and on returning to Australia again engaged in stock and land business, with which he has always been associated. He opposed Mr. Thrower for Macquarie at the last election.

Mr. T. J. Ley, the successful National candidate for Hurstville, who was born at Bath, in England, is a member of the well-known firm of solicitors, Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co. When the Local Government Act of Sir Joseph Carruthers was introduced, Mr. Ley entered the Hurstville council. He is honorary solicitor to the Vigilance Committee of Mortdale, which looks after the affairs of soldiers and their dependents, and is also honorary solicitor to the Sutherland branch of the Voluntary Workers' Association.

Mr. Manning, who is leading in the Albury contest, although there may yet have to be a second ballot, is a wheat-grower, and has a large property near West Wyalong. He was born near Holbrook 44 years ago. Mr. Manning, who has been a member of the executive of the Farmers and Settlers' Association for five years, and took a prominent part with Mr. Beeby in the formation of the Progressive party, contested the Lachlan seat at the last election.

Mr. J. W. Doyle, president of the Labour political executive, who has defeated Mr. R. D. Meagher for Phillip, has been secretary of the Eight-hours Demonstration Committee for about five years. From the formation of the Letterpress Machinists' Union, in 1901, he has been active in its operations, and has held all the official positions in that body. It was during his secretaryship that it obtained its first award, and he has been wages board member and advocate on its behalf ever since. Mr. Doyle has occupied such positions as the chairmanship of the Trades Hall Association, and has also been active in Friendly Society matters.

Mr. Thomas Davies Mutch, who has been returned for Botany, is in his 32nd year, and is a member of the journalistic staff of the "Worker." He began his industrial career [illegible] years ago in a shearing-shed on the Lachlan River, where he joined the Australian Workers' Union. He has continuously since then been a member of the A.W.U., and for the past four years has been the chairman of the Sydney local committee. For three years he represented the Rural Workers' Union and the A.W.U. on the Sydney Labour Council. He was for a term chairman of the New South Wales district of the Australian Journalists' Association.

Mr. M'Kell, who has provided one of the surprises of the election by so substantially defeating the veteran of the old Labour party, Mr. J. S. T. M'Gowen, is one of the youngest members of the new House, being only about 26 years of age. He is the assistant secretary of the Boilermakers' Union. An interesting fact about him is that he was one of the scholars of the Sunday-school of which Mr. M'Gowen has for so long been superintendent.

Mr. Quirk, the successful Labour candidate for Rozelle, who beat Mr. A. Reed, another untried man, is a native of Balmain, and has been in the Balmain post-office practically all his life. He has been associated with the Labour movement for 20 years, and is described by the leader of the Labour party (Mr. Storey) as "a good, reliable type of man, bound to make a favourable impression in the House."

Mr. Carl Johnston, the new member for Bathurst, has long been an aspirant for Parliamentary honours, but this is the first time he has "got home." He also stood for the City Council several years ago. He is popular in Labour circles, and is regarded as a man likely to come to the front.

Mr. M. Burke, who has won the Belmore seat, is an alderman of the City Council, and has been connected with the Labour movement for more than 20 years. He holds the office of organiser of the United Labourers' Protective Society. He has had long experience as a delegate to the Labour Council and to Political Labour League conferences, and as a member of the P.L.L. executive.

Mr. Lazzarini, who has won the Marrickville seat from Mr. T. S. Crawford, is a familiar figure at the Trades Hall, and has been a member of the Political Labour League executive for some time. He is secretary of the Tailors and Tailoresses' Union, and president of the No-Conscription Council. He is an Australian, his father being an Italian married to an English woman.

Mr. T. Smith, who has been elected for King on the Labour ticket, replacing the retiring member (Mr. Morrish), is a newcomer to Australia, having only arrived from the old country some three or four years ago. He is a young man, only about 26 years of age, and, like a number of others, he has got into Parliament from the position of a Labour organiser.

Mr. Arthur William Buckley, the new member for Surry Hills, was formerly a tram conductor, and was a member of the executive of the Railway and Tramway Employees' Association. He is of a more militant type than the majority of the leaders of the Labour movement.

Mr. F. M. Bourke, the new member for Newtown, was formerly a tramway employee, and gained some prominence in the strike some years ago.

Mr. P. F. Loughlin, who is leading in the contest for Burrangong, is a school teacher.

Mr. Bushell, the Labour candidate who has apparently displaced the old member for Lyndhurst, Mr. Waddell, is a storekeeper, who has been prominent in the Labour movement.

RECRUITING.

Competent double-entry bookkeepers are required at the District Paymaster's Depot, Victoria Barracks, and those selected will be graded as sergeants at first, with the chance of promotion later on. Men who have tried to enlist in the A.I.F., but have been turned down on the ground of being medically unfit, will be given preference. Applications, accompanied by testimonials, should be sent to the District Paymaster, Victoria Barracks, Paddington.

Fifty men are required for the German concentration camp guard. Recruits are requested to muster at the enrolling office, Victoria Barracks, at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Lieutenants Seaborn and Diamond, who are arranging the sportsmen's unit, appeal to friends and sportsmen, married or single, to enlist. Twenty sportsmen have already signified their willingness to join this unit.

Privates Mulholland and Eastick were presented with wristlet watches by the Coolamon Patriotic Committee. Private Frank Davis, late captain of the rifle club, was presented with a wristlet radium dial watch by the members of the club, and afterwards at the Methodist Church with a pocket wallet.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Director-General of Recruiting, Mr. Mackinnon, M.L.A., stated to-day that the recent political utterances to the effect that the growing of wheat in Australia was more valuable to the Allies than the sending to the front of the best soldiers in the Empire were not generally approved by the farmers of Australia. The expression of such views was calculated to make unpatriotic farmers more confident that in neglecting their duty they had done the right thing, and to cause chagrin to those who had allowed their sons to go to the front.

The number of men who offered themselves for active service yesterday was 41, and of these 17 were accepted.

WATERSIDE WORKERS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Referring to the report that the Federal Ministry intended to approach the Waterside Workers' Federation with a view to improving the position created by the refusal of wharf-labourers to work more than one shift, Senator Russell, Assistant Federal Minister, stated that it was not intended to ask the union to depart in any way from union rules or award hours. It was intended, however, to place the whole position before the officers of the federation, and to ask that the union should co-operate to the fullest extent possible in expediting the arrival and departure of vessels, in order that the greatest possible use might be made, in the interests of the Empire, of the tonnage.

LABOUR DOMINATION.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Referring on Saturday to his expulsion by the Western Australian Political Labour Council, the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) said the official organisation in Western Australia had apparently fallen into line with the official organisations in the eastern States, and had adopted the attitude that in respect of questions outside the Labour platform, no member of the Labour party could pledge himself to his electors, but must hold himself free to vote as directed by the Labour executive of his State. He was quite satisfied that the electors of Australia would endorse the attitude taken up by Mr. Hughes and those who followed him, namely, that they had to answer for their attitude on the political platform to the electors, and not to any organisation.

SOAP-MAKING INDUSTRY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Following upon the closing down of a number of soapworks, representatives of the soap-making industry waited upon Senator Russell, Assistant Federal Minister, on Saturday. A definite promise was made by the manufacturers that the factories would be reopened, and that all the men would be taken back to work on Tuesday at the latest.

A conference between the soap manufacturers, tallow producers, and representatives of the Federal authorities will be held on Monday to review the position. The question of fixing the price for tallow and soap will be considered.

SUCCESS OF NATIONAL PARTY

Minimum Majority of 20

MANY OLD MEMBERS DEFEATED

Accepting the figures that appeared conclusive at midday yesterday, the net result of the State general election on Saturday is to make the state of parties as follows.—

National	- -	49
Labour	- -	30
Uncertain	- -	11

RESULTS ANALYSED.

Of these uncertain seats, two are those of soldier members, who were returned unopposed, Lieutenants Carmichael and Dunn, and one that of Private George Cann, who was elected by a large majority for Canterbury. The other eight are seven of those in which second ballots will be necessary, and Lachlan, where the polling is very close between Mr. T. Brown (P.L.L.) and Mr. Buttenshaw (Nationalist). The position in the seats in which second ballot are necessary would appear to be distinctly favourable to the National party, as in four of them—Durham, Gloucester, Hawkesbury, and Namoi—the voting seems to be decidedly anti-P.L.L., while in Albury and Byron, it may be said the seats will probably return the Nationalist candidate in the second ballot contest. In Kahibah, on the other hand, Mr. Edden will probably have a hard fight to retain his seat against the P.L.L. nominee, and Private Cann is generally considered a P.L.L. nominee. It is believed that both Messrs. Carmichael and Dunn will declare for Mr. Holman, and will follow the National Government.

This forecast only gives the P.L.L. two of the eleven seats, and should that work out, the Holman Government will have a majority in the new Parliament of 26. There is not any reasonable possibility of the Government's majority being reduced below 20. Looked at from the point of view of the Political Labour League, this means that it has been put back to where it was just ten years ago, when they faced the electors in 1907, with a party, under Mr. M'Gowen, of 32. That was the beginning of the Labour party's rise to power. During the life of that Parliament, 1907-1910, they won five by-elections, and at the 1910 elections they won nine more seats, and went back to power.

All the metropolitan seats have been won outright, except Gordon, where a second ballot will be necessary. In this direction it is interesting to note that all the second ballot victories for the Labour party in 1910 in the metropolis have now turned round on that party. They were:—Enmore, Hurstville, St. George, Waverley, and Willoughby. In the country, Albury will have its second experience of a second ballot. There will be seven of these in country electorates this time. The polling is set down by law to take place 14 days from the first ballot, which makes the second ballot polling day on this occasion, April 7, or three days before the return of the writs, which are due on April 10.

The P.L.L. machine has retained control of the bulk of the old Labour seats in the metropolitan area. The contest for Enmore is in this respect unique, Mr. Hall, Attorney-General, was the only ex-Labour member able to hold his seat as a Nationalist. All around him, Newtown, Redfern, Phillip, Marrickville, Annandale, and Botany, the seats fell to the P.L.L.

Private George Cann, who is away on active service, enjoys the distinction of securing the largest majority. For Canterbury, he was returned with a margain of 6866 votes to his credit.

From the point of view of the Ministry itself, the election result is in the highest degree gratifying. Ten members of the Cabinet went to the poll, and every one has been returned. In one case, that of Mr. Beeby, for Wagga, a Minister resigned a seat in the Legislative Council and went into a Labour stronghold, where he succeeded in wresting a seat from the Opposition. In the cases of Messrs. Holman, Hall, Ashford, James, and Fitzpatrick, the contests appear to have been fiercely contested.

Made up, as the Nationalist party is, of three different sections of the old Parliament—Labour, Liberal, and Independent—it may be noted that of the old Liberals Mr. Waddell is the only one to suffer defeat. Of the old Independents, the figures show that Mr. Price is having a hard fight to hold his seat at Gloucester. The Labour section of the National party, however, suffered considerably, losing Messrs. M'Gowen, Morrish, Crawford, Hollis, Griffith, Page, Meagher, Burgess, and Nicholson. Of these, Messrs. M'Gowen and Nicholson were members of the original Labour party elected in 1891, as was also Mr. Black, who has been beaten for Namoi, where there will be a second ballot without him.

Another gratifying feature of the poll is that the attempt made to steal three soldiers' seats has failed. Colonel Nicholson, at Maitland, and Private George Cann, at Canterbury, have retained their seats by comfortable majorities, while Private Arkins also appears to be safe at Castlereagh.

The voting was fairly heavy throughout the State, especially when it is considered that many soldiers were absent. Hurstville, where Mr. T. J. Ley wrested a P.L.L. seat from Captain Toombs, had the heaviest polling. There 12,668 votes were cast, out of 19,673 on the roll. In the neighbouring seat of Granville, 12,596 votes were polled, out of 19,748 on the roll. The contest between four Nationalists for Gordon brought 10,148 people to the poll, out of 17,467 on the roll; while at Randwick, which has 20,634 voters enrolled, the fight between Mr. David Storey, the honorary Minister, and Mr. O'Halloran produced 11,598 votes.

Mr. Arthur Manning, on the present returns, falls short by only 35 of a clear majority over his opponents at Albury—Mr. Bodkin and Mr. Cusack. He is quite confident that, in the second ballot that is to be taken, he will secure the greater portion of the 965 votes which were given to Mr. Cusack, the late member.

The lead of Mr. Lane, who is contesting Armidale, cannot be altered.

SECOND BALLOTS.

In the following electorates second ballots will be necessary, the leading candidates having failed to secure an absolute majority of votes:—

ALBURY.
BODKIN (P.L.L.) and MANNING (N.).
BYRON.
FERRY (N.) and VIRTUE (Ind.).
DURHAM.
BENNETT (Ind.) and BROWN (N.).
GLOUCESTER.
MARTIN (N.) and PRICE (Ind.).
GORDON.
LOXTON (I.N.) and FORSYTH (I.).
HAWKESBURY.
HALL (N.) and WALKER (Ind.).
KAHIBAH.
CONNELL (P.L.L.) and EDDEN (N.).
NAMOI.
EGAN (P.L.L.) and WEARNE (I.).

ELECTED AND LEADING CANDIDATES.

Appended is a list of the personnel of the new House of Assembly, as disclosed by the polling returns to date. It must, however, be remembered that in the list the names of the leading candidates are given in those cases where the election has not yet been decided, so that the list is subject to alteration:—

WEAVER, R. W. D. (N.)—Willoughby.

VIEWS OF PRIME MINISTER.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Commenting to-night upon the results of the elections, the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) said:—"Assuming that this is the best the caucus party can do, it is evident that that party has been overwhelmingly defeated; their house of cards has tumbled down. Ever since the referendum they have been seeing visions and building castles in the air. The result of yesterday's elections came as a rude awakening. The feelings of the caucus party must be like those of a drunken man the morning after a heavy debauch—the world is a grey and gloomy place. The result must have been a great disappointment and a great surprise to the members of the caucus party, yet it was only what to everyone but themselves seemed inevitable.

"Probably," said Mr. Hughes, in conclusion, "the later returns will show the position to be still more favourable to the Nationalist party."

MR. GRIFFITH'S DEFEAT.

"I attribute my defeat at Annandale," said Mr. Griffith, "to the apathy of the bulk of the Liberal electors, who failed to record their votes. I got a very big Labour vote—between 1200 and 1500—as is proved by the fact that the P.L.L. candidate only got 3600 votes, as against the 4500 I polled last time. Many leaders of the Liberals worked very hard, but the rank and file would not respond. They did not consider the fact that I had risked my political existence for what I considered to be in the interests of my country was sufficient reason for sinking their prejudices against me as a Labour man."

SCENES AT THE BOOTHS.

Although we are living in stirring times, and although Saturday's election contest was probably the most important in the history of the State, there were no very exciting scenes around the booths. In a few electorates, such as Phillip, Darlinghurst, Newtown, Enmore, and Annandale, the excitement at times ran high, but there was little in the way of rowdyism. Saturday's contest was of special interest because it marked the birth of a new machine; but as one went the rounds of the electorates on Saturday, and listened to the remarks of the crowds, one was soon able to decide that, as far as the city and suburbs were concerned, the vote was going to be practically on the old lines—the Labour vote would go solidly to the selected P.L.L. candidate, no matter what old friendships might be broken.

Redfern was a case in point. Redfern is one of the strongest Labour constituencies in the metropolis, and it has been represented for upwards of a quarter of a century by Mr. M'Gowen, the first Labour representative to enter Parliament, and the first Labour Premier of the State. But Mr. M'Gowen had advocated conscription, and had been expelled from the party. There were many who believed he would win against the selected P.L.L. nominee, for there was never a more popular man. But personality went down before the machine. One knew it long before the polling booth in Redfern Park closed. Here and there one found men arguing on behalf of Mr. M'Gowen, but they were far outnumbered. "M'Kell, M'Kell, M'Kell," was the cry. How far Mr. M'Gowen's absence from the electorate, for he is still an inmate of the Hobart hospital, contributed to his downfall it is impossible to say.

Not far away—in the adjoining electorate of Phillip—one of the most interesting fights of all was taking place. A little while ago Mr. R. D. Meagher's position as member for Phillip was regarded as impregnable. He had the additional prestige of being Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, and Lord Mayor of Sydney. But the fatal question of conscription came up, and he supported it—and was expelled. Mr. John Doyle, president of the P.L.L., was selected to contest the seat.

There were some exciting scenes in Phillip during the day. There was no selected Nationalist candidate, and Mr. Meagher stood as an Independent Labourite. Whichever way the contest went, Labour was sure of representation, but much bitterness was imported into the fight. For this reason an unusually large number of police seemed to be stationed about the Phillip booths. It was thought that the day would not pass over without a serious disturbance between the Doyle and the Meagher factions. "Meagher's the man for F. p.," shouted an elderly Irishman, standing on a candle box near the booth at the corner of Abercrombie and Myrtle streets, "and I defy any o' yez to deny it. Ould as I am, I'll fight anny man who dares to deny it. 'Ere, constable, hould me coat." "Doyle for me," shouts another Irishman in the crowd, diverting himself of his coat and approaching the box. Partisans of the two candidates gathered round, and it looked as if a free fight would ensue, but fortunately two or three other constables came up at the moment and hostilities were prevented.

All the time motor cars—Doyle motor cars and Meagher motor cars—and all sorts of vehicles were running up to the polling booths and depositing voters there. Not a vote was being lost. And it seemed that all the children of Phillip electorate had been let loose in the streets to add to the general excitement. Mr. Meagher expected defeat. "I know it's a losing fight here," he said in the afternoon, "but I was determined to go down with my colours flying."

At night, after the poll had been declared, Mr. Doyle spoke from several places in the electorate. It was something like a triumphal procession, the crowds following him from place to place. Speaking from the Q.C.E. Hotel, Abercrombie-street, he said—just as Mr. M'Kell was saying in Redfern and other successful candidates were saying about the same time in other electorates—that it was the proudest moment in his life. "But the fight is not yet over," he added. "It is only now beginning, and I hope the time will never come when I will be found betraying the confidence you have reposed in me this day."

"Will ye wear Dick's wig, John?" asked a man in the crowd, evidently referring to the Speakership.

"Not till I'm bald, anyway," he replied. "I don't believe in all this dressing—wigs and gowns, mace, and all the rest of it. I'm plain John Doyle." (Great cheering.)

Out at Newtown, where Mr. Hollis went down before the official Labour candidate, there were similar scenes. "I thought it would be close," remarked Mr. Hollis to a "Herald" representative, "but I never expected I was going to be beaten like this. But look at what they've done to poor old Jim M'Gowen! There's gratitude for you!"

The contests at Enmore, where Mr. D. R. Hall, the Attorney-General, managed to win, and at Annandale, where Mr. Arthur Griffith was beaten, were close and exciting, and it was impossible to foretell the result. Both were old members of the Labour party, but whilst Mr. Hall now sought re-election under the National banner, Mr. Griffith ran as an Independent Labourite. In both these contests the local interest was intense. The prediction that Mr. Hall would have a very hard fight proved quite true, but, as he remarked at the Chief Secretary's office on Saturday night, when the figures were coming in from all over the State, "a win's a win."

Another electorate in which a great fight was expected was that of Darlinghurst, which includes a large body of working men and women as well as some of the most aristocratic residential parts of the city; but Mr. Levy won comfortably from Mr. Farrell. The third candidate, addressing the crowd in front of the polling booth while the declaration was being awaited, confessed that he was "a bit of a joke," and never expected to be taken seriously. He spoke from a wonderful sort of contrivance, made up of soap and candle boxes, that moved about from place to place on wheels. He wore a top hat, with dress coat and starched white shirt, and the absence of a collar was made up for by a brilliant jewel in his shirt front, about an inch in diameter, rivalling the Koh-i-noor. It has been his habit to wind up his electioneering addresses by selling peanuts, and that is how he finished his campaign—selling peanuts to Mr. Levy's and Mr. Farrell's supporters.

SOLDIERS' VOTES.

Referring yesterday to the complaint that the votes of some New South Wales soldiers in Victoria were lost, the Chief Secretary (Mr. Fuller) stated that the only New South Wales recruits in Victoria, with the exception of the Flying School at Laverton, were at Seymour. Special leave was arranged for the men by approaching the Prime Minister. The Victorian Government was asked by Mr. Fuller to supply a special train to take the men to the border. The cost of that train would be paid by the New South Wales Government. Under the New South Wales electoral law it was not permissible to vote outside the bounds of the State.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

In order to give them an opportunity to vote at the election, about 200 New South Wales soldiers in Seymour camp were permitted to travel by special train to Albury.

NEW LINES

ENEMY RESISTS ALLIES' ADVANCE

SUCCESSFUL BLOW BY FRENCH

RUSSIA

ATTACK BY GERMANY EXPECTED

LONDON, March 25.

Paris advices state that there are indications that Prince Rupprecht's army is hastily establishing itself on lines between Saint Quentin and Cambrai. The approaches to these towns are barred by two systems of advanced trenches.

The British, profiting by frost and darkness, are bringing up artillery by leaps and bounds.

The newspapers express the opinion that possibly we are on the eve of a big battle. The enemy resistance in the French sector is energetically increasing, and the cavalry is returning to the rear of the German lines.

FRENCH SUCCESS.

A French communique issued late on Friday night says: Between the Somme and Oise our troops, with determination and dash, carried out a completely successful offensive. The enemy, despite desperate resistance, was driven back on a wide front for a distance ranging from 1½ to 2½ miles north and east of the St. Quentin Canal. North-east of Tergnier we pushed detachments as far as the heights dominating the valley of the Oise.

The Germans caused floods in this region, and the town of La Fere has been inundated.

South of the Oise we continued to cross the Ailette. In the region north of Soissons our troops made considerable progress towards Margival.

Two enemy attacks north-west of Reims failed under our barrage and machine gun fire. The enemy losses were considerable, judging from the number of bodies hung up on our entanglements.

A later French communique, issued at noon on Saturday, says: East of the St. Quentin Canal, during the night, we extended our positions very appreciably. At certain points we reached the western bank of the Oise, north of La Fere. We also made progress on the eastern bank of the Ailette.

Our fire stopped enemy attempts against small posts in the direction of Berry-au-Bac; also east of Reims and west of Mort Homme (Verdun).

The French communique issued at midnight on Saturday:—

North of the Somme we drove back the enemy as far as the outskirts of Savy (three miles from St. Quentin), where the enemy took up a position in a line of previously prepared trenches.

Our troops between the Somme and the Oise, following up their success, attacked the enemy, who defended every foot of the ground. We drove him back over half a mile north of Grand Seraucourt and Gibercourt.

We seized the west bank of the Oise, between the suburbs of La Fere, and a point north of Vendeuil. Two advanced forts of the La Fere defences fell into our hands.

South of the Oise, in spite of floods, we made progress considerably on the east bank of the Ailette. We captured several villages, and threw back the enemy rearguards into the forest of Coucy.

There is little change in the position north of Soissons, and we found numerous German corpses in the trenches we captured yesterday north of Margival. A German long-range gun bombarded Soissons.

There was lively artillery fighting at Berry-au-Bac and Riems, and in Alsace.

A German hydroplane, flying towards Etretat, was captured at sea, and the occupants made prisoners.

A French aeroplane bombed the aviation ground north of Thiaucourt, wrecking the sheds. French squadrons profusely bombed works at Thionville, Briey Station, and Conflans.

BRITISH PROGRESS.

Sir Douglas Haig's midnight report on Saturday stated: We occupied Roisel, seven miles eastward of Peronne. A strong enemy detachment attacked positions at Beaumetz-les-Cambrai, 6½ miles north-east of Bapaume, and obtained a footing. An immediate counter-attack drove them out.

We made progress on a front of 1½ mile south-westward and westward of Ecoust St. Mein, north by north-east of Bapaume, where we repulsed attacks, and also made progress northward of Boiry-Becquerelle (south-east of Arras).

We also carried out a successful raid eastward of Arras. We reached the enemy's second line and entered trenches eastward of Neuville St. Vaast, inflicting casualties. We dispersed an attack in the neighbourhood of Richebourg la Voet.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his midnight report on Friday stated:—Our patrols encountered detachments of some strength at a number of points between Etreifrers, Beaumetz-le-Cambrai, and Beaurains.

We drove off counter-attacks at Aisecourt-le-Bas, Beaumetz, and Vralcourt.

We progressed in the neighbourhood of Ecoust and Croisilles, and carried out a successful raid east of Arras. The enemy blew up a large mine north of Neuville St. Vaast, but no damage resulted.

We effectively bombarded trenches south-east of Loos, and eastward of Vermelles.

GERMAN REPORTS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message on Friday stated: We drove back the French, who had crossed the Somme at Crozat Canal, with sanguinary losses. We captured 230 prisoners.

We repulsed strong French attacks west and south of Margival.

A later German official message says: On both sides of the Somme and Oise the enemy, feeling forward hesitatingly and frequently entrenching, is seriously hampered by our measures. We repulsed the French westward of La Fere, on the Aillette Plain, at Neuville, and at Margival.

GERMAN STRATEGY.

Mr. Lincoln Eyre, the Paris correspondent of the "New York World," says that Germany is preparing to stake her existence as a military Power on a titanic pitched battle between Arras and the Champagne regions. The Germans' plan is to fall back not to trenches, but to strategic positions, from which they will attempt to sweep forward across open fields. Simultaneously the Germans will attempt diversions at Verdun and elsewhere.

Dr. Helferich (German Imperial Treasurer) privately told Ministerialists that the 1917 harvest would be very bad, but the war would be decided before August.

ARTILLERY POWER.

Mr. Joseph M'Cabe, interviewed by the "New York Times," said: "I am a humanitarian, and I loathe war and militarism. But as a historian I know that the mailed fist must meet something harder than a boxing glove. I have had exceptional opportunities of knowing the situation. The only thing that saved the Germans last autumn was the fact that our heavy guns sank in four feet of mud. We have now an irresistible superiority in artillery, and also fifty million shells ready for a great offensive.

GERMAN EMPEROR'S VIEWS.

An official report from Berlin, received in Amsterdam, says the German Emperor sent a message to Von Hindenburg as follows:—"The movements at the front in France are most important for the general situation on our Western front. You and Von Ludendorf decided on the measure, thus creating a new base for further warfare."

In a letter to the King of Bavaria the Emperor wrote:—"We owe the brilliant carrying out of the great army movement on the Western front firstly to the successful action of your son, Rupprecht. The whole performance deserves the highest appreciation, and historically will be a page of glory. It is my extraordinary joy to inform you thereof."

PRISONERS IN WAR ZONE.

Despite Anglo-French warnings that if Germany enforces her threats there will be reprisals, a large number of prisoners has been sent to the war zone. The International Red Cross is endeavouring to induce Germany to cancel the movement.

TRAIL OF THE BEAST.

Mr. Macpherson (Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the War Office), in the House of Commons, officially confirmed the statement that arsenic was found in wells at Barleux, nea Peronne.

A paris message says that on the eve of departing from Noyon the Germans visited the banks, ordered private safes to be opened, seized securities, jewellery, and cash valued at £700,000 sterling, and decamped.

Paris correspondents state that the Germans systematically destroyed Chauny. In one of the most important streets not a single thing was left standing. All that remains are broken-down walls, blackened stones, and twisted iron. A great part of the population had been sent to the Northern provinces. For the last month only old men, children, and women incapable of work remained.

The Paris "Journal" says that Madame de la Charlonnay, owner of Chateau Noyon, states that German generals removed the ancient oak fittings of the chateau. The German Emperor visited the chateau at the end of 1916, and on that occasion ordered some of the chimney ornaments to be cut off and sent to Germany.

Mr. Philip Gibbs presents a vivid picture of the destruction wrought by the enemy. French chateaux, and in one case a tabernacle, were flung down. In a chapel the priests' vestments were trampled in the mud, and the sacred vessels broken and the fragments mixed up with filth. The coffin of an aristocrat buried in a vault below was torn open, exposing the remains.

In another chateau, where the German headquarters staff lodged, the officers fired their revolvers at pictures and mirrors. They asked the lady of the chateau, "Shall we take your piano or break it? We must do one thing or the other." The lady smiled ironically, and said, "Break it, gentlemen." The "gentlemen" broke it.

The French population of Roye, Voyennes, Nesle, and other villages came out to greet their rescuers. They were often mere spectres, worn down to skin and bone, starving and clamouring for food.

They had had no meat for six months, and no milk or eggs for a year. Their bread was so sticky that it felt like putty. Only the work of the American committee saved the people from starving to death.

Some of the German soldiers were kind, and spared the children some of their rations. Others were brutal, and went through the houses with axes and explosives, destroying everything. They said the officers' orders were that the towns must be laid waste.

Of individual brutalities of German soldiers, of beastliness too foul for words, says the correspondent, I heard many stories from white-faced women with burning eyes. English and French soldiers, seeing and hearing of these horrors, wonder at the work of men who belong to the human family and so disgrace it.

Mr. Simms, correspondent for the United States Press Association on the British front, says:—The Germans drove off women and girls before devastating the countryside. An aged Frenchman, whom the correspondent met in the neighbourhood of Rouyle Petit, described how he had dug trenches for the Germans three miles north-west of St. Quentin. Hundreds of other Frenchmen had been similarly employed. They were paid in scrip money, which the French cities were forced by the Germans to print. The new defences are described as enormously strong. According to one Frenchman, they are a mile wide, with extensive wire entanglements supporting the trenches. The Germans did not intend to give up the sections now relinquished, as marble monuments of a permanent nature are visible everywhere in memory of the German dead.

WITH THE AUSTRALIANS.

Cabling from British headquarters in France on March 20, Mr. Bean, official correspondent with the Australian forces, says:—

Early yesterday morning, and during the night before, the Australian infantry rushed the Germans out of villages five miles beyond Bapaume—in some cases before the Germans had time to destroy the place as thoroughly as they intended. Yesterday afternoon some of us walked through these places. The little village of Beaugnatre had been blown down by placing explosives under the walls, and was destroyed more completely than by shellfire. The same method had been employed in Bapaume.

The village of Vaux-Vraucourt, however, had been less completely ruined. There had been a short fight there during the night. Later the Germans attempted to reconnoitre into the village again, and were driven off by our troops.

During the afternoon we could see the Germans quite clearly retiring in extended order over the far hills beyond Noreuil. Lines of them were moving up the distant slope, forming into more compact bodies, and disappearing over the skyline. Near by, at one time, stood a railway train, in which probably some of their stores and baggage had been packed.

Our cavalry and infantry patrols have been in touch with the Uhlans, and the old interesting forms of warfare have all returned. The green country around us was full of traces of German encampments, of which every hut and stick had been removed, only paths and scrap heaps remaining. The Germans had recently sawn down hundreds of great trees along the roads, and had blown many craters at the crossroads. The villages on the horizon were all burning.

Cabling later on March 20 Mr. Bean said:—The German army before this section of the front is now, with the exception of rear parties, entirely behind a great double line of defences, which stretches from before Cambrai to the north-west.

The Australian and British advanced troops this morning came upon a portion of the German rearguard in the villages about a mile in front of this line. There was some sharp fighting between the outposts, the Germans hitting back harder than at any time since the retreat began, with the exception of the first stiff fighting near the Bapaume-road at the beginning of the month.

The Germans have been poisoning the wells with filth and dung. One typical German jest just reported is the discovery in the captured German trenches of a cat, crucified, with a cigar in its mouth. This is probably a sneer at the crucifixes which are common along the French roads.

On March 21 Mr. Bean reported:—

The Australian troops advanced about a mile in some parts to-day. They are in touch with the German rearguard at every part, and now no great distance from the German line of trenches.

A German aeroplane was shot down to-day. The pilot was severely wounded. He is reported to be Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia.

It has been snowing intermittently throughout the day. To-night the ground is white.

AMERICAN GOLD FOR ALLIES.

A Zurich correspondent reports that the "Berliner Tageblatt" states that in a few days the American Government's formal declaration of war will end the abnormal situation that has been existing since January 31.

Several German papers affirm that at the first cannon shot at a German submarine from an American steamer Germany will declare war.

Washington advices state that a consensus of opinion among members of the Cabinet is that the United States should not supply military forces for co-operation with the allied armies, but it favours the authorisation of the President to use from £200,000,000 to £1,000,000,000 if necessary in assisting in stamping out submarines. The New York "World's" suggestion of a gift of a billion dollars (£200,000,000) to France has met with nation-wide editorial approval.

The Council of National Defence met on Saturday to consider proposals for impressing on the country the seriousness of America's part if she enters the war, for the purpose of stimulating the spirit of sacrifice, which the highest officials say will be increasingly demanded if the war is prolonged.

A New York message says ten million dollars insurance have been placed at Lloyd's against damage to buildings by aircraft or naval bombardments if America goes to war. Premiums are from one-half to one per cent.

A Washington message states that the Cabinet has discussed the President's message which he will send to the opening of Congress on April 2.

It is understood that the basis of it will be adequate defensive measures against Germany's acts of war. Larger sums will probably be lent the Allies to enable them to continue fighting.

A Hague message says that Captain Christopher, master of the Healdton, the American steamer torpedoed off the Dutch coast, has arrived with 20 survivors. He declares that a Dutchman and 19 Americans were lost. It is regarded in diplomatic circles as one of the gravest cases, which will hasten American action. The only Dutchman aboard was the cook. Apparently in a fit of insanity he dived into the burning wreckage. It is expected that Germany will deny guilt, on the ground that nobody saw a submarine.

An Amsterdam report says the Healdton was an oil-tank steamer, bound for Rotterdam. The captain states that two torpedoes immediately set fire to the ship within the so-called safety zone. A boat containing 26 men, including seven Americans, capsized. All were drowned. The rest of the crew were saved. A submarine came to the surface, but immediately disappeared.

AMERICANS WITHDRAW FROM BELGIUM.

The State Department announces that it has instructed Mr. Brand Whitlock, also all American diplomatic and consular officers, to withdraw from Belgium and take up their residence at Havre. The department has also ordered American relief workers to withdraw.

The Government, it is stated, appreciates the seriousness of the step, which has been taken after the fullest consideration, following on Germany's sinking of relief ships, in flagrant violation of the latter's promises. America's protest through the Spanish Government was not answered by Berlin. The Germans in Belgium withdrew from Mr. Whitlock his diplomatic privileges, including his courier service and cabling rights. Germany's disregard of her undertakings causes grave concern for future relief work. Although a verbal promise was made that the commission could leave when desired, Germany's observance of other undertakings has not been such a success as to justify America leaving her citizens in occupied territory.

A New York message says the Belgian Relief Commission announces that the work will be carried on by Dutch representatives of the commission in occupied territories.

The "New York Herald's" Washington correspondent says that the Council of National Defence, in co-operation with the War Department, is making tentative arrangements for a volunteer army of 500,000, for which the War Department is already obtaining material.

A modified press censorship has been introduced.

The "Sun" says that the machinery of the great German liner, Vaterland, has been damaged beyond repair. Other German ships are so damaged that it will not be possible to use them for months.

A "peace federation" meeting was held in Madison-square Garden. There were several disturbances, and three free fights. Many Germans were in the audience. One speaker asked prayers for the death of Senator Root and Mr. Roosevelt. Police quelled the disturbances.

SHIPPING LOSSES.

The Admiralty states that information circulated by the German wireless press shows that, in addition to the ships sunk or captured by the Moewe, as reported on January 17, the following British ships have also been sunk:—French Prince (4766 tons), Eddie (2652 tons), Brecknockshire, Rhodanthe (3061 tons), Katherine (2926 tons), Esmeraldas (4678 tons), Otaki (9795 tons), Demeterton (6048 tons), Governor (5524 tons), Jean, St. Theodore (4992 tons), and the Norwegian steamer Staut (490 tons).

[The Admiralty announced on January 17 that the following steamers had been sunk:—British: Dramatist (4515 tons), Radnorshire (4310), Minieh (2381), Netherby Hall (4461), Mount Temple (9792), King George (3852), Voltaire (8618), Georgic (White Star liner, 10,077 tons). French: Nantes and Anires. Norwagian: City of Tampico and Hansi.]

The Dutch Government has refused Germany's offer to pay compensation for the seven Dutch ships which German submarines recently torpedoed.

A BOY'S EXAMPLE.

At the Mansion House Sir Edward Carson, on behalf of the Admiralty, received a portrait of Jack Cornwell, the ship's boy who was posthumously awarded the V.C. for bravery at the Battle of Jutland. Sir Edward said that the great deeds that are occurring on the sea will be the finest chapter in the history of any navy. One could always tell grumblers to remember Cornwell. Sometimes they were disappointed by strikes delaying the repair of ships. He appealed to the workmen to remember Cornwell. This was not the time to discuss questions of capital and labour. They must only think of the men braving the North Sea. He concluded: Do not grumble; stick it out.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE IN PERSIA.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, March 24.

A Russian communique states: We occupied Kerind (in West Persia, 60 miles west of Kermanshah) on March 17. The Turks had destroyed the town and set it on fire.

An earlier report stated: We dislodged the Turks from positions near Charesra, and occupied Allabad, near Kerind, after a battle of 16 hours.

MENACE TO ITALY.

The "New York World" publishes a message from Rome stating that Italian strategists foresee the heaviest German offensive against Italy very soon—most likely by many units made available by the shortening of the Western line.

FRENCH BATTLESHIP LOST.

It is officially announced that the French battleship Danton (18,028 tons), built in 1911, was struck by two torpedoes in the Mediterranean on Monday last, and sank in half an hour.

Eight hundred and five of the crew were saved, and 296 were drowned.

MONASTIR FRONT.

The enemy, reinforced on the Monastir front, strongly counter-attacked the positions he lost north-west of the town, but was repulsed.

RUSSIAN FRONT.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, March 24.

A Russian official report states:—The enemy attacked between the rivers Sulitza and Chvanich (Roumanian front), causing us to withdraw two-thirds of a mile eastwards.

A Russian official message on Friday stated:—In the direction of Lida (south of Vilna), our counter-attacks regained the trenches lost yesterday.

A German official message states:—We stormed and took Russian positions between the Solyontar and Czobanos valleys, taking 500 prisoners.

TURKEY AND GERMANY.

An official announcement from Berlin states that Enver Pasha, commander of the Turkish army, has arrived at German headquarters, where he conferred with the German Emperor and Marshal von Hindenburg.

BRITAIN'S FOOD PROBLEM.

LONDON, March 24.

London bakers have fixed the price of the 4lb loaf at 1s as from Monday.

Brewers have raised the wholesale prices of beer 50 per cent.

At Stepney a woman was fined £1 for paying more than the official price of 1½d for potatoes. The salesman was fined 10s. Potato buyers at Cardiff formed a queue a mile long.

In the House of Commons on Friday Mr. H. A. Watt urged that, owing to submarines, the food position was serious.

Mr. G. H. Roberts (Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade) admitted that there had been a coal shortage owing to transport difficulties. If the war lasted until next winter, it might be necessary to give local authorities power to acquire and distribute coal supplies.

Captain Bathurst, on behalf of the Food Controller, said he was not going to disguise the food outlook, which was not wholly satisfactory. The country would have been much better able to cope with the difficulties if the food stringency, which was likely to develop, had been foreseen earlier in the war.

The Food Controller did not approve of the establishment of municipal depots, which would result in chaos by divorcing the distribution of food from natural commercial channels. It would mean setting up another machine which would possess neither experience nor practical knowledge. If the public used substitutes generously for the next three months the supply of potatoes would be sufficient to carry through until the new crop. Even if there should be an absence of potatoes and sugar, the country would not be starving, and there would be no cause for food riots.

The Government has appointed Lord Devonport (Food Controller), Mr. Prothero (Chairman of the Board of Agriculture), General Atkins, and Sir Thomas Robinson (Agent-General for Queensland) as a committee to co-ordinate and organise home and imported meat resources for the army and civil population, in addition to frozen meat for the allied armies. The Queensland office now receives and distributes all supplies of Australian rabbits, Australian and New Zealand cheese, and Canadian fresh fish.

The departmental committee on food prices recommends that it be suggested that India should stimulate wheat growing, Britain guaranteeing the price. It is recommended that the Government should consult Egypt with the same object.

Lord Selborne's committee to increase home grown food supplies suggests a tariff on imports of dairy produce, meat, and corn, if imported manufactured goods are taxed; the appointment of assessors empowered to supersede the owners of badly farmed land; and the recognition of rabbits as a curse to agriculture and forestry.

ENGINEERS' STRIKE.

There has been a general resumption of work by the Tyne engineers, who went on strike as a protest against the alleged cutting of the premium bonus and the time allowance.

EXPLOSION AT ARCHANGEL.

BOSTON, March 23.

A British steamer from Archangel, which recently arrived, reports that two steamers blew up there, killing 1500 people. The disaster was presumably the result of a German plot.

IMPERIAL WAR CABINET.

All the delegates attended a prolonged third meeting of the Imperial War Cabinet on Friday at Mr. Lloyd George's residence. Mr. Walter Long (Colonial Secretary) presided. The overseas delegates were much impressed at the importance of the matters presented for their consideration in Cabinet.

AUSTRALIAN RED CROSS.

During recent severe weather the Australian Red Cross in France made special efforts to ameliorate conditions by supplying the men with additional blankets, oil heaters, cookers, and warm clothing; also games and amusements for the men in the rest camps.

ATTACK EXPECTED BY RUSSIA.

LONDON, March 25.

A report yesterday stated that the Russian Ministry of War was not oblivious to the possible reason of Von Hindenburg's western front retreat. The Ministry has warned the public to beware of rampant espionage in every guise. There are evidences of the enemy's concentration of troops and munitions on the northern front. The Government energetically is preparing to counter a possible enemy advance towards Petrograd.

The latest Petrograd advices state, regarding the Ministry of War's warning concerning rampant espionage, that many spies and abettors of spies already have been caught and now that M. Sukhomlinoff's trial is energetically proceeding, regardless of consequences, the country will be enabled gradually to destroy the elaborate German spy organisation, which until recently was rooted in the various departments of the late Russian Government. The newspapers note that no voice is raised for the cessation of the war.

The Petrograd correspondent of the "New York World" interviewed M. Rodzianko, the Duma leader, who said: The Russian Government is now in the hands of the Duma, to whom Ministers are responsible. The members of the new Cabinet were so well chosen that already they are able to give Russia a mighty impetus forward. The interviewer asked: What will be the form of the new Government? M. Rodzianko: There has not been time yet properly to consider the matter. The revolution came because Russia would never have been able to finish the war successfully under the old Government. We are turning every thought to repelling the enemy from our soil. After the Duma passes laws governing the election, there will be a national convention, then we will learn the people's will. The interviewer: When did you realise that revolution was inevitable? M. Rodzianko: Last December. If the Emperor had granted responsible government on New Year's Day he could have saved his throne.

The monk, Rasputin's remains, have been discovered at Tsarskoe Seloe. The legend that the body was send to Siberia, therefore, is a myth. The remains are now being interred some distance from Tsarskoe Seloe.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Petrograd correspondent reports that the reorganisation is speeding up with the utmost earnestness. The idea is widespread that the swiftness of the retreat on the Western front means that Von Hindenburg is massing troops to take Russia unprepared. This has had a sobering effect, and many factories have resumed work. Recruits are drilling in the streets. Shops and banks are open, and trams are running. It is astonishing that the city has so quickly recovered. The army will shortly take an oath to serve the new Government.

The newspapers energetically draw attention to the war, declaring that it must not be overshadowed in the fervour of internal reform.

A wireless message from Berne states that the Germans strenuously are endeavouring to strengthen the hands of those few Russion extremists who are showing pacifist tendencies. The principal device is the circulation in neutral countries of false reports of revolutionary outbreaks in Germany, with a view to persuading Russian Socialists that they may trust the German Socialists to organise a revolution to eradicate Prussian militarism.

It is understood that a National Defence Committee is being appointed, consisting of Ministers of the army, navy, munitions, and supplies.

The improvement of the situation at Petrograd continues. The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council (which has been a source of grave danger) and the Cabinet have compromised, the former agreeing to await a constituent assembly and abide by the decision thereof.

As a result of the revolution the Nihilist party has been dissolved.

The Russian Government in a proclamation, dated Thursday, states that the whole of Russia, including Finland, the Caucasus, Turkestan, and Siberia, has joined the new regime. The coup de main only deprived Russia of 2000 killed and wounded. It is necessary to isolate the ex-Emperor and ex-Empress in the Castle of Tsarskoe Selo, in order to prevent a counter revolution and monarchical propaganda.

According to Petrograd advices, the Grand Duke Nicholas, who as Commander-in-Chief bade a cordial farewell to the troops and inhabitants of the Caucasus, appealed for unity in order to overcome the enemy and secure internal liberty. He hoped that after the war he would return as a small landowner.

Polish troops who participated in the review at Kieff carried the colours of the 1863 revolution.

A Stockholm message states that M. Dakovitch, a member of the Duma, has been appointed Governor-General of Finland.

EXILES TO RETURN.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Russian Consul-General for Australia (M. D'Abaza) has received the following cable message from the Russian Embassy in London:—

"The representatives of the Foreign Office abroad may have had information sent to them at different times by the Foreign Office and the Police Department prohibiting them from issuing and viseing return passports to Russia to persons who were prohibited from returning to Russia for political reasons. In consequence of the new proclamation of political amnesty, all the abovementioned prohibitions have ceased to exist. Therefore kindly refuse the issue and viseing of passports for Russia only to those persons whose names occur in allied and our own military control lists, and also to those foreign subjects who were debarred from returning to Russia or who were expelled from Russia in consequence of a criminal sentence of a non-political character. Please render the fullest assistance to all Russian political immigrants who are desirous of returning home. In case of necessity, furnish them, within the limits of reasonable economy, with the necessary funds for their passage to Russia. Should credits prove necessary for this purpose, you are authorised to raise a loan on behalf of the Foreign Office from a local bank."

IRISH QUESTION.

GOVERNMENT'S SOLUTION.

The "Manchester Guardian" understands that the Government's solution of the Irish question contemplates applying the Home Rule Act, with financial modifications and provision for county option, accompanied by a device enabling self-excluded areas to enjoy the Irish Parliament's domestic legislation as far as desired. The option will be renewed at each general election until complete unity is effected.

It is understood that they will not announce their attitude until the Government presents the scheme in its entirety.

GERMANY'S PRIVATIONS.

Herr Knuert, a Socialist deputy in the Reichstag, drew a vivid picture of the people's misery. Child mortality and the victims to consumption were increasing, he said. Ill-fed munition workers were fainting in the workshops. The Emperor and the Chancellor bore the guilt of the death and misery of millions. As in Russia, those in high places would not always be protected. His speech was interrupted. The censor suppressed many passages.

"Vorwaerts" says:—"It is impossible to exist on the bread allowance, which is now reduced to 200 grammes."

In view of the stocks of corn in Germany being lower than expected the weekly bread ration has been decreased by one quarter, and the ration of potatoes and meat increased.

American correspondents in Berlin state that the reports that there is a revolution in Germany are untrue and ridiculous.

GERMAN OUTRAGES.

The Germans pillaged and ignited many Roumanian villages, and parts of the towns of Kalarasch, Djurdjino, and Orsova. Children were murdered, women outraged, and churches profaned.

WAR NOTES.

OPERATIONS IN THE WEST.

The resistance which the Germans recently developed along their line between Arras and Soissons has been gradually tightened, according to the communiques received during the week-end. Although they cannot be accepted as conclusive proof that the enemy's withdrawal has now ceased, the statements contained in Mr. C. E. W. Bean's message, and in one of the later French communiques, show that the enemy has at least made preparations for a defensive stand in this region. Mr. Bean refers to a double line of defences, stretching before Cambrai, while the French communique states that the enemy took up a position in a line of previously prepared trenches on the outskirts of Savy, about three and a half miles west of St. Quentin. Even if he does decide to halt along a line before St. Quentin and Laon, there is sure to be a good deal of fighting along the front before the new line "freezes" or "crystallises" into its more or less permanent shape. It is as yet impossible to say whether it is passing through this process at present, or whether the pressure on a strong covering screen of troops is proving too great for them at places. That there is still a good deal of convulsive movement evident at points along the line is shown by the capture of Roisel by the British and by the gains made by the French southward of St. Quentin. In this region, which is towards the right centre of the affected front, the French have developed a considerable salient in their line, the most easterly edge of which rests along about 3½ miles of the western bank of the Oise, immediately to the northward of the town of La Fere, which lies well down the river bank. Here the enemy has lost his direct railway communication between St. Quentin, La Fere, and Laon, while he has allowed the French to approach so closely to the two first-named towns as to rob them of their value as nodal points behind a new permanent line. The capture of Roisel by the British also deprives the enemy of an important lateral line of railway running north-west from Cambrai. This, however, was previously dominated by the French at another point near Savy.

TURKS IN WESTERN PERSIA.

The Russian information concerning the operations against the Turks in Western Persia appears to be somewhat belated, and it would seem as if the Turks who retreated westward from Hamadan along the road through Kermanshah towards Khanikin must by now be approaching the Persian border. The capture of Kerind, which the Russians announce this morning, occurred as far back as Saturday week last. Kerind is nearly 60 miles westward of Kermanshah by road, and slightly more than that distance eastward of Khanikin, which town the British are trying to reach from the south, in order to cut off the Turkish retreat. The road which the Turks are following runs in a north-westerly direction from Kerind, but takes a bend to the south-west at Kasr-i-Shirin, near the Turkish border, passing through Khanikin on its way to Bagdad. If the Turks were able to choose their own road they would probably follow this main route as far as Bagdad, and then take the main northern road leading from that city towards Mosul. But this line of retreat is now closed to them, and the British pushing up from Bakuba must force them sooner or later to swing off the main road in a westerly or north-westerly direction. It is difficult to say what route they will eventually follow, but it is possible that the British will have to push forward some distance beyond Khanikin if they are to get within striking distance of these retiring Turks before they leave the main road. At Kasr-i-Shirin a track leads north-westward across the desert to Kifri, on the Bagdad-Mosul road, and, as the enemy has probably improved this route since he commenced his operations in Western Persia, it is quite possible that he will leave the main road at this point. The British must be well over 70 miles south-west of Kasr-i-Shirin, and, as their advance is likely to be resisted, it does not seem likely that they will succeed in intercepting the retreating forces, especially as the latter left Kerind over a week ago, and cannot now be far from the point where they will in all probability strike away north-west into their own territory.

FOOD SHORTAGE.

The question of food shortage is becoming more pressing in almost all of the belligerent countries, and the statements made in the House of Commons show that the outlook in England is far from satisfactory, despite the fact that there is less scarcity there than in any of the other nations engaged in the war. As far as Germany is concerned, it was recognised long ago that the authorities there permitted and encouraged the dissemination of deliberately misleading reports regarding food shortage in the Central Empires. It was, therefore, impossible to attach much significance to the sordid descriptions which were passed by the censor of hunger and suffering amongst the civilian population in Germany and Austria-Hungary. It is now clear, however, that serious shortage does exist. A contributor to the "Times," who is only known as the "Neutral," recently succeeded in passing on to that paper some "uncensored" communications, which were the first of his articles to reach the outer world for some months. The writer is one of those people who, for reasons mentioned above, have frequently raised a warning voice against over-estimating the seriousness of the economic situation in Germany; "but," he adds, "there does not seem to be much need for warning now." A passage in his second article is of special interest, in view of the statement attributed to the German Imperial Treasurer in the Rome message published this morning. "The problem that is worrying the German Administration," wrote this "Neutral" in Cologne on January 12 last, "is: How can Germany exist until the next harvest? Everybody is now counting on the early vegetables, and it must be remembered in regard to this that it is only of recent years that the Germans generally took to their heavy meat diet. In my judgment. . . . . the whole question of the ability of Germany to 'hold out'—to use the expression which is still in every German mouth—is the question whether the Germans can live on these vegetables, together with such supplies of meat, game, freshwater fish, and imported fish as will be available, until the end of August."

INDIA'S LOYALTY.

DELHI, March 23.

Indian members, at the closing session of the Legislative Council, spoke most cordially of the relations between India and the British Crown. Many expressed grateful thanks to Mr. Chamberlain (Secretary for India) in insisting on the House of Commons upon the justice of the new Indian duty on cotton, and said that the opposition from Lancashire was due to a misunderstanding of the position. All the speeches contained protestations of patriotism and loyalty, and of the willingness of the Indian people to share in the burden of Empire.

WOUNDED GERMAN PRINCE.

King Alphonso of Spain has telegraphed to Prince Leopold of Prussia that his son, Prince Frederick Karl, who was shot down while aeroplaning over the British lines, is seriously wounded, having received a bullet in the stomach.

IMPORTATION OF LUXURIES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Following upon the decision to limit the importation of luxuries into the Commonwealth, the Federal Government has decided to appoint a board of three departmental officers, one from the Treasury, one from the Defence Department, and one from the Customs Department to go into the whole question of importations, with the idea of formulating a scheme, which will have the effect of limiting the imports of luxuries and unessentials.

FEDERAL ELECTIONS.

LABOUR MANIFESTO.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The election manifesto of the Australian Labour party has been issued.

The manifesto, after reviewing the events leading up to the cleavage in the party, says that Mr. Hughes, on a no-confidence vote being carried against him, left the party with 23 other members. These deserters formed a new Ministry, which was kept in power by the Liberal party for a few weeks when a wrangle for Ministerial office took place, resulting in the Hughes party conceding to the Liberals a majority of the portfolios in a fusion Cabinet.

The efforts of the fusion to obtain a prolongation of the life of Parliament, and the resignation of Senator Ready from the Senate thus altering the Labour majority in that Chamber to a minority, are referred to in the manifesto, which also deals with the statement made by Senator Watson concerning the Prime Minister, and the refusal of the Government to grant a Royal Commission to inquire into the charges and the circumstances surrounding the resignation of Senator Ready. The announcement made by two Liberal senators that they would vote against the prolongation of Parliament caused much chagrin, it is alleged, amongst members of the fusion Government, who, thwarted at every turn, were forced to dissolve.

The manifesto proceeds:—"Ministerialists will not promise not to raise again the question of conscription. They state they intend to respect the verdict of the people given on October 28 last, but this respect is qualified by the addition of these words: 'It is, of course, impossible to say what the future may have in store, but it is clear that the electors of Australia alone can reverse their previous decision.' (See statement of policy, Federal 'Hansard,' Feb. 22, 1917.) The statement is ambiguous enough to permit the Hughes-Cook combination, if they win at the coming elections, to claim that in returning the fusion in a majority the electors have reversed their decision. We are more strongly opposed to conscription than ever. The conscription campaign raised in Australia the most bitter animosities, sundering friendly relations hitherto existing between civilians, and even severing family ties. Conscription was never even necessary. When in office we conducted the war with vigour and determination, and if elected we will continue under the voluntary system to secure the services of every man fit and willing to proceed to the front. In doing this we shall not neglect the vital necessities of Australian home defence, including the extension of our shipbuilding industry, and we shall assist Great Britain and her allies by stimulating the production of food supplies and metals. The restoration of our brave soldiers to their country and civil employment should be the grateful duty of the Government. The present methods are inadequate and slow. The Repatriation Fund will be reimbursed from time to time. By a Labour Government money will be lent without interest to returned soldiers, who may wish to go on the land, or engage in business or trade, or in a profession. Immediate steps will be taken to secure suitable employment for others. Employers who do not keep open the positions occupied by employees who have enlisted for active service will be called upon by Act of Parliament to show cause why they do not re-employ their men. We propose immediately to revise the Customs tariff with a view to giving adequate protection to Australian manufacturers, and making provision for the development of our vast resources. We are firmly of opinion that a truly scientific protectionist policy will go far to solving the problem of finding employment for our returning soldiers and other citizens. As far as our Federal powers will admit, we propose to make the lot of the man on the land more attractive. We regard centralisation as a great evil, and we shall, by all means in our power, including measures for the concentration of water irrigation and rural credits, endeavour to improve the prospects of people who live in the country. We shall appoint producers' representatives on all Government boards dealing with the handling and marketing of primary products. Consideration has shown that a wealth levy is not necessary, and that it is sounder finance to obtain revenue by way of income tax upon the incomes derived from wealth. We propose to tax war time profits on the basis of 50 per cent. of excess profits for the year ended June 30, 1915, 60 per cent. for the year ended June 30, 1916, and 100 per cent. thereafter while the war lasts. The bill will provide for a reasonable return of capital invested, and a board of referees will be appointed to deal with Australian companies operating outside Australia, new business, and any local cases that might entail injustice or hardship. The policy of the Australian Labour party is that, as far as may be possible, Commonwealth and State loans may be raised in Australia, interest will to this extent be paid within the Commonwealth, and not abroad. Owing to the war the public debt of the Commonwealth alone (which at June 30 will be £160,000,000) will attain such dimensions that interest payments will make a serious demand on annual revenue. A sinking fund of one-half per cent., providing for the payment of the public debt within 50 years, will meet the demands of justice and fair play to those who come after us. We are in favour of representation at the Imperial Conference, but decisions affecting the Commonwealth of Australia should be submitted for ratification by the Federal Parliament. Delegates will be instructed to object to any curtailment of the powers of self-government now enjoyed by the Australian Commonwealth. The policy of the Australian Labour party is still the same in spite of recent desertions from its ranks. Men may grow tired or prove false to their pledges, but the Australian Labour movement will go on—must go on if civilisation is to progress."

LAST DAY FOR ENROLMENT.

The rolls for the Commonwealth elections, to be held on May 5, will close at 6 p.m. to-day, and all claims for enrolment must be actually in the hands of the registrars before that hour.

BENDIGO.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The caucus campaign for the Bendigo seat was informally launched last night at Bendigo, when Mr. Higgs, M.P., ex-Treasurer, and Mr. Hampson, M.P. (who is opposing the Prime Minister) addressed an open-air gathering. There were plenty of people in the streets, but the audience was at no time very large, nor was it by any means unanimous for the speakers, especially Mr. Hampson, who met with a fair number of interruptions.

HUME.

ALBURY, Saturday.

At a conference of National Federation branches Mr. Falkiner, of Deliniquin, who contested the Riverina at the last election, secured 53 votes in the selection for the Hume. His name is to be submitted to the Wagga conference on Tuesday for endorsement.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The writs for the Federal election will be issued at 6 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

PERTH, Sunday.

The State Labour Congress concluded its sittings on Saturday, and declared the Labour solidarity committee formed by the Labour supporters of Mr. Hughes a bogus organisation, and announced that any Labour organisation which declined to accept the decisions of the congress were bogus. The congress selected Mr. Costello, organising secretary of the A.W.U. on the transcontinental railway line, to oppose Mr. Gregory for Dampier, but decided not to nominate a candidate for the Swan seat against Sir John Forrest.

HEROIC SOLDIER.

ADELAIDE, Saturday.

Details of a sacrifice on part of Gunner E. W. E. Williams, now serving in France, but late of Fort Largs, near Adelaide, have been received. Williams was in hospital in France, and on the day of his discharge a wounded officer was brought in. After consultation the doctor called for volunteers who were willing to give part of their blood. Live blood, it was explained, was the only thing that could possibly save the officer. Williams and another man volunteered, and their offer was accepted. The operation was performed almost immediately by the King's physician. Williams was informed when convalescent that nearly two pints of blood had been taken from his body. Despite all efforts the officer died. The gunner was recommended for the Distinguished Conduct Medal as a reward for his sacrifice. Williams was completely exhausted by the effect of the operation, but has regained his former health.

ALLEGED MURDER.

WELLINGTON, Saturday.

At Napier Patrick Kelly, aged 82, was declared not guilty on the charge of murdering George Dodd at Waipawa, on the ground of impulsive insanity. Kelly was detained in custody.

LATE WAR NEWS.

LIQUOR RESTRICTIONS.

LONDON, March 24.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Parliamentary correspondent says there is anxiety among brewers at the prospect of immediate Government action regarding the liquor trade. Sir George Cave's committee has concluded a comprehensive inquiry into the liquor trade as a war and peace problem. There is a strong feeling in Scotland in favour of prohibition. Irish brewers have practically agreed to the cancellation of thousands of licenses. Action in England and Wales has not yet been decided upon, but State purchase and control would not present any difficult financial problem. Lord Milner made it clear that the Government would adopt prohibition whenever food pressure made it necessary. The correspondent adds that State purchase would facilitate prohibition for the war period, and would also make the post-war drink problem more manageable, eliminating private profits and purifying public-houses.

THE GERMAN RETREAT.

The German newspapers are bolstering up the Sixth War Loan by eulogising the German retreat from the Somme and Ancre fronts as a great strategical move; while among the economic advantages is that of feeding fewer French civilians.

OFFER TO RUSSIANS.

The Berne correspondent of the "Observer" says that several German agents, including two prominent socialists, during the past week approached Russian socialists and political refugees in Switzerland, urging them to return to Russia, and use their influence for peace. Large sums were offered the Russians, with a safe conduct through Germany. The offer was contemptuously rejected, a leading Russian socialist refugee bidding them return to Germany first, and free the Germans from Prussian despotism.

SOLDIERS AT FOOTBALL.

At Sydenham a Rugby team, representing the Army Service, beat the Australians from Salisbury Camp, by 14 points to 12. Lieutenant Retherstone, Sime, Gwynne, and Sergeant Fetherstone each scored a try for the Australians. The Army Service team scored four tries, converting one.

The Royal Naval Division beat the Australian Artillery by 13 points to 6. Munro and Dixon scored the tries for Australia.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN LOAN.

LONDON, March 25.

The South Australian loan of £1,000,000, carrying interest at the rate of 5½ per cent., and issued at £97, was quickly underwritten. The loan is redeemable in 1922-27, and replaces the 4 per cent. stock bonds maturing on April 1, the holders of which will receive preferential allotment. It is pointed out in money circles that as the result of the additional attractiveness of the terms, considerable surplus capital is seeking investment.

The South Australian loan prospectus offers converters a cash payment of 67/ per cent., and invites cash subscriptions for the amount unconverted. The final instalment of 80 per cent. is payable on April 30. The list closes on March 29. The net yield to the investor will be about 119/ per cent., reckoning redemption.

"WIN THE WAR" POLICY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The "Win the War" campaign will be opened by the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, at Bendigo on Tuesday evening.

In outlining the policy to be submitted to the electors, he may be expected to refer briefly to the circumstances leading to the formation of the "Win the War" Ministry, and to furnish details of the agreement entered into between the two sections of the Ministerial party. He will emphasise the fact that both sections are determined to respect the decision of the people with reference to conscription. He will reiterate, in terms so emphatic as to render all doubt impossible, that the main principle upon which the two parties came together was that the whole energies of the Ministry should be devoted to the adoption of measures to assist the Empire to win the war, and he will show that Australia can best play her part by furnishing men, by relieving the Imperial authorities of financial responsibilities, and by liberal supplies of the foodstuffs and material of which Great Britain stands in need.

In regard to reinforcements, he will show that Australia is only obtaining about a third of the men necessary to maintain the troops already in the field at their proper strength, and he will make a vigorous appeal to the manhood of the Commonwealth to join the colours. He may be expected to demonstrate that increased efforts will be necessary to make up for the wastage inseparable from the vigorous prosecution of the war, and to submit certain proposals to further the efforts of the Director-General of Recruiting. He will repeat that, under no circumstances, will compulsion be resorted to, except by the desire and decision of the people.

Reference may be made to the magnificent response already given by the people to the appeals for money to carry on the war, and an intimation may be expected that, in the near future, increased monetary sacrifices will be necessary. Both national and private economy will necessarily have to be observed. The steps being taken to limit the importation of luxuries will be explained, and reference will be made to the Ministry's financial proposals.

The Prime Minister may be expected to say that the existing tariff must only be considered as a temporary arrangement. A new repatriation scheme, based upon the report of Senator Millen, who has been engaged for some weeks on the matter, may be anticipated. The action adopted in freeing the Australian metal industry from enemy influence, and in conserving the whole of Australia's wheat and wool production for war purposes, will be referred to.

Mr. Hughes may also announce that preference to soldiers is the fixed policy of his Ministry.

MASTER CARRIERS' GRIEVANCE.

The Master Carriers' Association held its annual gathering in an atmosphere of quiet enjoyment at Correy's Gardens on Saturday. Mr. Frank Cridland, who presided at the luncheon, in proposing "The Day We Celebrate," said the association had not met with just recognition from the Harbour Trust, which was proceeding with the construction of wharfs totally unsuitable for modern methods of handling goods. The association had frequently brought under the notice of those responsible the absence of platforms, which meant that it now took four men to perform the loading work that two might otherwise do.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN M'INDOE.

A well-known figure in coastal shipping, in the person of Captain John M'Indoe, died at his residence at Campsie on Saturday. Amongst the fleet of "sixty milers" the deceased mariner was first known as the master of the old Civility, long since passed out, and for the last 14 years he navigated the steamer Kiama, a familiar figure on the South Coast as a blue metal carrier and collier.

Captain M'Indoe was a native of Paisley, on the Clyde, emigrating at an early age.

LATE COMMERCIAL.

LAUNCESTON, Sunday.

The Taviuni left Devonport on Friday night for Sydney with 9496 bags of potatoes, 1136 of oats, 152 of peas, 112 of beans, 777 cases of fruit, from Devonport; 3836 bags of potatoes, 497 of oats, 173 of peas, 200 bales of straw, from Burnie. The Sydney's cargo was 6577 bags of potatoes, 4206 of oats, 1148 of peas, 75 of tares, 33 of beans, 139 cases of apples, 3780ft of timber, from Devonport; 744 bags of potatoes, 225 of peas, 224 of turnips from Stanley. The total shipments were:—22,123 bags of potatoes, 5051 of oats, 1978 of peas, 224 of turnips, 145 of beans, 75 of tares, 200 bales of straw, 912 cases of apples, 39 of pears, 3780ft of timber. The potato transhipments were:—2631 bags for Newcastle and 3572 bags for Queensland, leaving 15,920 bags for Sydney.

BOAT FATALITY.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

Last night at 7.30 the North Coast Company's steamer Wollongbar, whilst coming up the harbour, collided with a skiff off Fort Denison.

The skiff was smashed and sank. Of the occupants three men were drowned and one was rescued.

The missing men are, J. J. Mellody, second engineer, 36, married, residing in Southport, England.

J. H. Douglas, third engineer, 32, single, residing at Glasgow.

W. J. Goodwin, 65, married, residing at 59 Jones-street, Ultimo, boatman.

Directly the accident occurred the Wollongbar was stopped, and a boat lowered. One man was picked up, but no trace of the other three was to be found. Albert Clark, the rescued man, is a member of the crew of a steamer anchored in Athol Bight.

CASUALTIES.

RESULT OF A DREAM.

NARRABRI.—On Friday morning a man named Philpots, residing at one of the Narrabri hotels, dreamed that the hotel was on fire, and, getting out of bed in a fright, he rushed on to the balcony and jumped to the ground, a distance of about 20 feet. The only serious injury sustained was a broken bone in one arm.

LISMORE, Sunday.

Ruby Amos, 19, a resident of Maclean, who was visiting her sister at Dunoon, was accidentally killed last week. She was riding in the front part of a motor lorry, when it jolted, and caused her to fall out. The wheel passed over her, inflicting injuries from which she died.

AN UPROARIOUS GREETING.

A correspondent protests against the treatment accorded Staff-sergeant Clutton, the defeated Nationalist candidate for Glebe, by "organised hooligans, many of whom, it was to be regretted, were members of unions." When he appeared on the balcony of the Record Reign Hall immediately after the successful candidate, Mr. Keegan, to return thanks for the support that he (Sergt. Clutton) had received. "When Staff-sergeant Clutton attempted to speak," says the correspondent, "he was greeted with an incessant and deafening uproar and continuous counting out, etc. I would like these noble band of sports and advocates of freedom of speech to consider their treatment of Mr Clutton with the good example set by the Nationalist supporters while Mr. Keegan was speaking. The conduct of these [illegible] of the P.L.L. and I.W.W. towards a defeated candidate calls for the condemnation of every right-thinking unionist."

FEDERAL LABOUR BALLOTS.

The executive of the P.L.L. yesterday gave attention to matters affecting the Federal elections. The names of Messrs. E. Cohen and G. Gibbons were added to the list of endorsed candidates for the Wentworth selection ballot. The returning officer (Senator Grant) was directed to make full arrangements for the convenience of unions eligible to vote in the West Sydney ballot. In connection with Cowper it was decided to review the selection, on the representations of the leagues, who are to be requested to make a recommendation. Protests against the [illegible] were dismissed, and Mr. P. C. Evans's endorsement for the centre was ordered to stand. Mr. G. Sinclair was endorsed as the selected Labour candidate for Nepean, and for Hume Mr. R. W. Cruickshank was selected. Protests in regard to the selection for Parkes will be considered on Wednesday night, when parties interested are invited to attend.

POLITICAL CIRCULARS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

In the Senate last week, Senator Gardiner, leader of the Opposition, stated that circulars issued by the Political Labour Council of New South Wales were being interfered with by the censor.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) stated to-day that he had inquired into Senator Gardiner's allegations, and he found that in only one case had the leaflets been interfered with. On that occasion a passage referring to the German prisoners' internment camp had been deleted.

COAL TRADE.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Yesterday, being polling day, the collieries of the northern field did not work, and the full time for the past fortnight was [illegible] days. The average work of 35 collieries was only 8½ days. Four collieries were idle the whole fortnight, and of these, Rhondda will be opened to-morrow, in consequence of orders ensuring work for about six months. Other collieries, such as Back Creek and Dudley field, have received similar orders.

During the fortnight the colliers were engaged on obtaining coal for "storage grass," as well as carrying out the ordinary trade. This accounts for the working average being so much higher than during previous fortnights.

FINANCIAL.

M.L.C. VALUATION REPORT.

The actuaries' valuation report for the ordinary branch of the Mutual Life and Citizens' Assurance Co., shows the financial position thus:—Assurance fund, as per balance-sheet, £8,706,846; net liability, £8,455,263; leaving a net surplus of £251,583; add interim bonuses paid, £2852. Total surplus, £254,435. The tables of mortality employed in the valuation are the Institute of Actuaries Hm for assurances, and Government Annuitants Experience (1883) for annuities. The "M.L.C." policies have been valued at 3 per cent. interest, and the "M.L.A." and "A.W.F." policies have been valued at 3½ per cent. interest. Endowments have been discounted by pure interest functions at 3 per cent. in the case of "M.L.C." policies and 3½ per cent. in the case of "M.L.A." and "A.W.F." policies. The valuation in all three sections has been made on a strictly pure premium basis. Deferred bonuses and guaranteed bonuses, whether accrued or prospective, have been included as liabilities. In apportioning the surplus between the "M.L.C.," "M.L.A.," and "A.W.F." sections, consideration has been given to the different rates of premium charged; to the different bases of valuation adopted; to the guarantee by the company as to expense rates to be charged the "M.L.A." and "A.W.F." sections; to the amount of interim bonuses paid in each section; and to the undivided profits brought into the account. The application of these principles allots:—To the "M.L.C." section, £168,985; to the "M.L.A." section, £42,195; to the "A.W.F." section, £43,255. Total, £254,435. Of the sum of £168,985 allotted to the "M.L.C." section, the actuary recommended that £168,972 (including interim bonuses paid) be divided in accordance with the articles of association (£135,178 to be apportioned among the participating "M.L.C." policyholders and £33,794 among the shareholders), and the balance, £13, be carried forward to the credit of the section. Of the sum of £42,195 allotted to the "M.L.A." section, he recommended that £42,131 (including interim bonuses paid) be apportioned among the "M.L.A." participating policyholders, and the balance, £64, be carried forward to the credit of the section. Of the sum of £43,255 allotted to the "A.W.F." section, he recommended that £43,254 (including interim bonuses paid) be apportioned among the "A.W.F." participating policyholders, and the balance, £1, be carried forward to the credit of the section.

As to the industrial branch, the following shows the financial position:—Assurance fund, as per balance-sheet, £1,408,890; net liability, £1,350,099; leaving a net surplus of £58,791. The tables of mortality employed in the valuation are the English Life Table (No. 3 males) for assurances, except assurances on joint lives, where the Hm table has been employed, and the Government Annuitants Experience (1883) for annuities. The rate of interest was 3½ per cent. for policies seven years in force and under and 4 per cent. for policies over seven years in force. The valuation has been made on a strictly pure premium basis, and no allowance has been made for expected secessions.

UNION BANK OF AUSTRALIA.

The half-yearly meeting of the Union Bank of Australia was held in London in January, Mr. Hy. P. Sturgis presiding. In moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, particulars of which we have already given, the chairman said that it had been a satisfactory half-year, and they were again able, after making full provision for bad and doubtful debts, depreciation of investments, and other contingencies, to pay their usual dividend and bonus, equal together to 14 per cent. per annum, a result which must be pleasing to the shareholders, especially when it is borne in mind that the dividend was paid free of income tax. On this occasion the figures of the balance-sheet before showed a falling off of £1,321,000 as compared with the previous year. On the liability side there were increases of £327,000 in circulation and £154,000 in bills payable, the former owing to notes being legal tender in New Zealand, where the settlement of exchanges is now effected in notes instead of gold, the latter owing to greater use by the public in remitting by drafts as against telegraphic remittances. The decline of £1,803,000 in deposits is mainly due to subscriptions to the Federal and New Zealand War Loans, which, in its turn, is reflected on the assets side in the falling off in cash balances, £1,229,000. Investments showed a reduction of £565,000, while the remittances—usually smaller at this period of the year—showed a shrinkage of only £51,000. The increase in advances of £483,000 was mainly owing to requirements in connection with the Government wheat scheme. There was an increase of £80,000 in money at call in London. The liquid and readily realisable assets on this occasion amounted to 13s 9d in the £ of their total liabilities to the public in London, the Commonwealth and New Zealand. In statement of profits expenses were about £21,000 higher than six months ago; £10,500 of this increase was in Australia, and was due to an increase in remuneration to the staff of some £15,000, chiefly caused by special allowances on account of the war, counteracted by a decrease in general charges of £5000 due to the smaller proportion of taxes payable during this half-year; there is also an increase of over £10,000 in income-tax.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The population of the Commonwealth, which was expected to surpass the five million mark before the end of the year, still lags back on account of the war.

On September 30 it is officially given as 4,895,124, against 4,940,952 at the end of 1914, when high water mark was reached.

There are now just 150 persons to each 100 square miles of territory in the Commonwealth, or 1½ persons to each square mile.

New South Wales carries 532 persons to each 100 square miles, and Victoria 1497.

In 1916 the arrivals into the Commonwealth totalled 63,381, and departures therefrom 132,227.

Of course movements of troops overseas prejudiced the figures during the period.

The immigration scheme naturally has all but ceased. Last year 1405 nominated and selected immigrants were landed in the Commonwealth, against 5796 in 1915, 20,806 in 1914, 37,465 in 1913, and 46,714 in 1912, when the immigration movement was at its height.

The shareholders of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha early in January demanded that the directors should convene a special meeting, with the object of increasing the capital of the company, and of increasing the dividend to 40 per cent. per annum.

On January 1 403 vessels of a gross tonnage of 1,495,601, were under construction in the United States, this being the largest volume on record at any particular moment.

At the end of the year at Amsterdam 100 marks were purchasable on exchange for 39.10 guilders, against 59.25 guilders normally.

At the same time the sovereign was quoted at 11.67 guilders, against 12.10 normally.

In other words, at the great Dutch commercial centre the mark had depreciated 33 per cent., while the sovereign had depreciated only 3 per cent.

STATE'S COAL MEASURES.

SOUTH OF MOUNT KEMBLA.

The presence of coal seams south of Mount Kembla has long been recognised, but for various reasons the exploitation of this area by the coalminer has hitherto been confined to the driving of a few comparatively short tunnels on the outcrops of the seams.

Messrs. G. and C. Hoskins, of the Lithgow steel works, have recently purchased a large area of coal bearing land in this locality known as the Wongawilli leases, and are now actively engaged developing the property between the Wongawilli leases and Robertson. The Central Illawarra Coal Mining and Coke Company hold a large area of coal-bearing land, and this company, with the object of proving the seams well back from the outcrops, have just completed a diamond drill bore.

Mr. A. A. Duncan, managing director of the company, informs us that the site of the bore is some three miles west of the coal outcrops and that it has penetrated a seam of coal 7ft 3in thick, with only one clay band 14in above the floor. According to Mr. Duncan, the property of the company has now been tested on three sides, and it is estimated that about 40 million tons of coal, averaging 14 per cent. ash is available, handy to the Illawarra railway line, and for shipment at Port Kembla. Another advantage claimed for the property is that the company hold an area of ground on the tableland close to the proposed Moss Vale-Robertson railway line, by which means the whole of the Southern railway system could be supplied with coal, and thus effect an enormous saving in haulage.

A most important factor with regard to coal proved south of Kembla is that it yields an excellent coke, and, in view of the admitted great shortage of that product for metallurgical purposes, and the fact that the supply of New South Wales coal suitable for coke-making is somewhat limited, it is reassuring to the metallurgist and steel producer to know that a further large area of coking coal has now been proved.

COMMERCIAL.

GOVERNMENT WAR INSURANCE.

Merchants have been in doubt for some time as to the terms and particulars of the war risks insurance offered by the British Government. This insurance is now at the rate of 3 guineas per cent. for steamers from Australia and 6 guineas per cent. for sailers. Only cargo is insured, and then only when it is entered on a British vessel of the following War Risks Associations approved by the British Government:—

FOR INSURANCE OF STEAMERS.

The North of England Protecting and Indemnity Association, the Liverpool and London War Risks Association, the London Group of War Risks Associations, comprising Britannia Steam Insurance Association, London Steamship Owners' Mutual Insurance Association, Newcastle War Risks Indemnity Association, Standard Steamship Owners' Mutual War Risks Association, Sunderland Steamship Mutual War Risks Association, United Kingdom Mutual War Risks Association, West of England Mutual War Risks Association.

FOR INSURANCE OF SAILING VESSELS.

War Risks Association Ltd.

Clause 2 of the policy, states that the insurance is only to cover the risks of capture, seizure, and detainment by the King's enemies and the consequences thereof, or any attempt thereat, and all the consequences of hostilities or warlike operations by or against the King's enemies, whether before or after the declaration of war. The insurance is undertaken, subject more particularly to the condition that the cargo insured is not enemy property at any time during the voyage, or that its shipment is not in contravention of the law, and that the voyage is not one which is prohibited by the Admiralty. Responsibility is cast upon the insured to ascertain whether the vessel in which the shipment is made is one belonging to an approved association. As a general rule, cargo carried on a vessel already sailed cannot be insured under the general scheme, but applications may be considered. The valuation for the purposes of insurance against war risk must not exceed that for insurance against sea risks. Cargo assured against war risk must be covered by approved marine policies. Not less than 70 per cent. should be insured against marine risks, but where shippers are in the habit of retaining a portion of the risk on each shipment for their own account the requirement may be modified on application in writing. Reinsurances are not accepted. Personal effects of passengers can be insured, but no jewellery, furs, or valuables in excess of 10 per cent. of the value insured can be included.

OVERSEA MARKET CABLES.

WOOL SALES

LONDON, March 23.

At the wool sales there was good competition for the miscellaneous catalogue submitted, and prices were well maintained.

The quantity of wool catalogued to March 23 totalled 26,418 bales. The Government withdrew 5351 bales, and 14,066 bales were sold.

LONDON, March 24.

The Government wools sold to-day were all merinos. Some of the choicest brought extreme prices, under good competition. All sorts were well maintained.

FROZEN MEAT AND RABBITS.

LONDON, March 24.

Frozen meat is quoted thus:—

	Mutton.	Lamb.
Australian	9¼d.	10¼d.
New Zealand	9½d.	10½d.
South America	11½d.	13d.

Rabbits are slow and unchanged.

WHEAT.

Wheat is nominal. There is a steady inquiry, but there is none offering.

WINTER BUTTER SUPPLIES.

Representatives of the Butter Advisory Committee met the Minister in Melbourne last week, with regard to providing a winter supply. The following suggestions were made:—

(1) That 60,000 boxes should be reserved during March, April, and May by the three eastern States; portion of this to be available for the remaining States.

(2) The quantity to be supplied by Queensland 30,000 boxes, New South Wales 20,000 boxes, Victoria 10,000 boxes.

(3) In order to carry out this arrangement, Victoria should immediately cease exporting first grade.

(4) The Federal Government to purchase any butter which may be found necessary to store, to carry out these obligations at the proclaimed price, eventually disposing of same through the usual agents for the brands which are stored.

The Minister received the recommendations sympathetically, and is now placing the matter before Cabinet. A definite decision is expected by to-day. If this arrangement is agreed to, Prescott, Ltd., is of the opinion that it will mean a prolongation of export, and should fully meet the situation.

N.S.W. LEMONS IN MELBOURNE.

Mr. B. F. Renant:—The prices telegraphed by our Melbourne correspondent are the prices current in the Western Market. They are undoubtedly reliable.

RAILWAY MARKET.

No sales were held at Alexandria on Saturday on account of the State General Elections.

The yarding was comprised of 56 trucks of forage, 12 of grain, and 1 of vegetables; while the manifest included 110 of forage, 20 of grain, and 3 of vegetables.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

A fair supply of bunch vegetables was forward at the vegetable market on Saturday. Buyers were well represented in this section, and business was brisk at last day's rates; but for heavy stuff supplies were large and the demand small.

Late quotations were:—

Cauliflowers, from 1/ to 8/; cabbages, good, from 1/ to 5/; lettuce, /6 to 1/3 per dozen.

Beetroot, 1/6 to 2/; carrots, 1/ to 1/6; celery, 3/ to 3/6; herbs, /9 to 1/; leeks, 1/ to 1/6; mint, 1/; parsley, 2/ to 2/6; parsnips, 1/ to 1/6; radishes, /6 to 1/6; rhubarb, 1/6 to 2/; spinach, 1/ to 1/6; white turnips, 1/9 to 2/; eschalots, 1/ to 1/6; watercress, 1/6 to 2/ per dozen bunches.

Beans, French, local 3/6 to 4/6; peas, local, 4/ to 6/ per bushel.

Cucumbers, local, 2/ to 2/6 per half-case; tomatoes, local, 1/ to 2/ per half-bushel case; rock melons, choice from 2/ to 6/ per gin-case.

Pumpkins, Queensland, from 1/ to 3/; onions, 8/; swede turnips, local, from 5/ to 7/ per cwt.; vegetable marrows, 1/ to 2/6; squash, /6 to 1/6; watermelons, local, from 2/ to 9/; grammas, 3/; jam melons, 2/6 to 6/ per dozen.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

Trucks ordered for forthcoming stock sales are:—March 29: 218 sheep and 131 cattle waggons. April 2: 52 sheep and 72 cattle waggons.

PROPERTY SALES.

Hardie and Gorman Proprietary, Ltd., reports having held a sale of Farrelly's Estate at Randwick, on the ground, on Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of buyers, and the competition was spirited. The whole of the allotments were disposed of at prices ranging from £6 per foot to £7/5/ per foot for the vacant allotments. Lot 6, with store thereon, was sold for £570; lot 3, with the cottage, Woodside, thereon, was sold for £700; and lot 9, with the weatherboard cottage thereon, was sold for £335. Total sales, £3339.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

PUBLIC SERVICE SHIELD FINALS.

Favourable weather conduced to good shooting at Randwick on Saturday. T. Lyons (Lands Dept.) scored 68 out of a possible 70 at 800 yards; and F. Watson (Parramatta) 68 at the same distance.

Chief interest centred in the finals of the Public Service Shields Competition. The A grade aggregate was won by the Tramway Club, with a grand total of 2382 points; the Water Supply and Sewerage Board Club 2288 were the runners-up; and Lands Dept. third, with 2271 points. The Public Works Club won the B grade aggregate, with 2266 points, beating Callan Park by 62 points.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The new programme at this place of amusement attracted a good attendance to the matinee performance on Saturday, and there was a crowded house in the evening. As an illustration of pure dramatic art contrasted with light vaudeville, the one act sketch, "The Counsellor," by Charles King and Virginia Thornton, assisted by Rupert Drum, was quite as successful as "The Greater Price," played by the same artists last week. It is a somewhat sombre picture of a Bowery girl pleading with a great lawyer to defend her lover, who is charged with murder, and in the role of Mag Hogan, Miss Thornton's passionate appeal, tragic in its intensity, fully aroused the sympathy of the audience. As usual, Roye Rene and Nat Phillips, as Mo and Stiffy respectively, furnished their patrons with plenty of amusement in the farcical comedy, "A Sporting Chance," and a number of incidental solo and part songs by other members of the cast, notably Belle Pollard and Caddy Franks, were also appreciated. In the first part Ross and Wyse, assisted by a precociously clever little boy, gave an excellent turn, and Nellie Kolle, Early and Laight, and the Cavana Duo, were again well to the front as capable entertainers.

REPERTORY THEATRE.

At the Repertory Theatre on Saturday night the Vagabonds' Club presented Gilbert Bayle's play, "What Would a Gentleman Do?" in aid of the Red Cross branch of the New South Wales Fire Brigade. A gratifying feature of the evening's performance was the crowded house. The audience's expectations were more than realised by the excellent acting of the principals in the caste, and the plot unfolded a series of problematical situations which were not devoid of humour. Mr. Hugh D. Jennings, in the part of a parvenu aspiring to the station of a gentleman, and Miss Ruby Coxhead as Madge Kiderby, were effectively supported by Mr. Peter J. Egan and Miss Ethel Sparkes. Other names deserving of mention were Mr. George Stokes, Mr. Rupert Pearce, and Miss Valetta Cohen.

NOTES.

The Federal Shipping Control Board met in Melbourne on Thursday, and the position at Broken Hill was considered, but it was not decided to take any action.

It was stated that the coal shortage on the Barrier was due, not to the lack of shipping facilities for the conveyance of the coal from Newcastle, but to the refusal of the wharf labourers at Port Pirie, which is the port of Broken Hill, to work more than 6½ hours a day. This stand by the men had caused a very serious position at Broken Hill, and it was probable that a number of the mines would have to be closed in the week-end. It was possible that the representatives of the union would be asked to meet the authorities, to discuss some means by which the position could be improved.

The Great Britain Sluicing Company reports a clean-up of its Britain plant on the 24th instant after sluicing 255 hours since February 27, for an estimated return of eight tons tin ore.

The Great Britain Sluicing Company reports that during the fortnight ended the 17th instant sluicing operations were continued at both the Great Britain Sluicing Company's plants without interruption. Both were running on overburden during the earlier part of the period and have commenced blowing in.

EDNA MAY CENTRAL.

The half-yearly report of the Edna May Central Company for the six months ended January 31 shows that 16,520 tons of ore were milled, yielding gold to the value of £26,600, compared with £25,295 from 17,115 tons the previous term. While a reduction is shown in the quantity crushed of 1395 tons, the ore has an improved grade of from 26.4/ to 32.2/ per ton by amalgamation. As the average assay value of the tailings is 9/ per ton, the total grade is 41.2/. The average cost per ton, including development, Melbourne expenditure, income tax, and insurance, etc., was 22/10.76, and after deductions for all working expenses and development amounting to £5154, a credit balance of £9917 remains on the working account. This balance on working account, added to the balance brought forward, £7063, made available the sum of £16,980, from which two dividends of 1/ per share were paid, which, with the Western Australian dividend tax, amounted to £6300, thus leaving £9396 to be carried forward. It is pointed out by the directors that the total ore treated, 68,352 tons, has been mined from the comparatively shallow depth of 225ft, and that there is yet exposed in the present workings approximately 22,000 tons, valued at from 30/ to 32/ a ton by amalgamation alone. The main shaft is now down a vertical depth of 325ft, or 100ft below the main level, so that only a well remains to be sunk in the main shaft before a crosscut can be commenced and the fourth level opened up. The indications, the directors state, are favourable for further large supplies of profitable ore, and, with the new air-compressor, which is on the way from England, and cyanide plant in operation, regular profits can be expected. The estimated cost of the cyanide plant is £3000.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

The manager of New Burragorang Co., reporting for the fortnight ended 17th instant, advises having despatched to the smelters 48 tons of first grade ore. The secretary intimates that owing to the expiration of the company's contract with the smelting works, the board has decided to discontinue the despatch of second grade ore from the mine. Meantime negotiations are proceeding with the smelting company for a new tariff.

ROSEHILL AUTUMN MEETING.

The Autumn meeting of the Rosehill Racing Club was brought to a close on Saturday in fine, cool, and pleasant weather, and there was a large gathering, which included a number of interstate sportsmen. The track was excellent going, and a local time record for 11 furlongs was registered by the imported horse Chantemerle in the Club Handicap. A couple of mishaps occurred in the race over the battens, Pet Boy losing his rider about half a mile from home, and King Mostyn, while running in the leading division, came down over the last hurdle. Fortunately, neither riders nor horses were much the worse for the misadventures. A number of horses with autumn engagements at headquarters were out under silk, and several displayed improved form, notably Giru, Cetigne, Lingle, Chantemerle, Spurn, Dear Laddie, and First Principle, who should figure prominently at Randwick next month. Speculation was brisk, and, though the ringmen benefited by Quirindi's success in the jumping event, their profits were reduced by the results of the five succeeding races, one favourite and four well-backed second favourites claiming the judge's decision.

Details are subjoined:—

SECOND HURDLE RACE of 125 sovs.; second horse 20 sovs., and third 5 sovs. from prize. 2¼m.

Mr. J. M. McMaster's ch g Quirindi, by Flavus (imp.)—Rose Petal, 6yrs, 9st 5lb, inc. 1lb over (F. Moore) 1
Mr. Leslie Stuart's b g Lord Cecil (imp.), 6yrs, 10st 2lb (A. Hawkins) 2
Mr. E. A. Haley's blk h Gillallambi, 6yrs, 9st 4lb (J. Shepherd) 3

Other starters: St. Medoc, 10st 0lb (F. Coleman); Sweet Step, 10st 2lb (J. Knox); King Mostyn, 9st 3lb (H. Treen); May Music, 9st (J. Clifton); Pet Boy, 3lb over, car. 9st 3lb (J. Connelly); Lord Macquarie, 8lb over, car. 9st 8lb (W. Burn).

Betting: 2 to 1 v Lord Cecil, 6 to 1 each v King Mostyn and Sweet Step, 7 to 1 v St. Medoc, 8 to 1 v Gillallambi, 10 to 1 each v Quirindi and Cumber King, 20 to 1 v others.

Gillallambi made the running, and opened up the back stretch, followed by Quirindi and Pet Boy; the latter of whom took charge at the five furlongs post, and was followed at length intervals by Gillallambi, Quirindi, Cumber King, and Coominya, with Lord Macquarie (who delayed the start by refusing to join his field) last. Pet Boy came round the bend and into the straight, with Gillallambi, Quirindi, and King Mostyn in pursuit; but Gillallambi resumed command at the distance, and rattled past the stand a couple of lengths from Pet Boy, after whom came Coominya, King Mostyn, and Sweet Step. Without change they raced past the stand, but passing the mile post Coominya and King Mostyn joined Gillallambi, and they were succeeded by Pet Boy, Sweet Step, Quirindi, and Lord Cecil. Nearing the five furlongs post Gillallambi resumed command and Pet Boy fell. Passing the half-mile post Gillallambi and King Mostyn were disputing the lead, and the pair came round the bend, with Quirindi, Coominya, and Lord Cecil in pursuit. Quirindi was first into the straight from King Mostyn and Gillallambi, with Lord Cecil next. King Mostyn lost his rider at the last obstacle, and Quirindi, coming through inside that point, won by a neck from Lord Cecil, who was a head in front of Gillallambi. St. Medoc was four lengths away, followed by Coominya, Sweet Step, May Music, and Cumber King, with Lord Macquarie last. Time, 4m 18s.

RAILWAY STAKES of 125 sovs; second horse 20 sovs and third horse 10 sovs from the prize. 7f.

Mrs. H. S. Thompson's blk or br m Spurn, by Ayr Laddie (imp.)—Scornful, aged, 9st 2lb (Dempsey) 1
Sir Wm. Cooper's ch h First Principle, aged, 9st 3lb (Walker) 2
Mr. J. Burton's blk f Sobrina, 3yrs, 7st 4lb, inc. 2lb over (N. Russell) 3

Other starters: Boureong, 8st 10lb (W. Lillyman); Wedding Day, 8st 5lb (C. Barden); Eastcourt, 8st 3lb (W. M'Lachlan); My Palm, 8st (T. Cooke); Dave Whitton, 7st 12lb (P. Roberts); William Scott, all. 3lb, inc. 1lb over, carr. 6st 11lb (F. O'Connor); Gallipoli, all. 2lb, carr. 8st 8lb (T. O'Bryan).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Spurn, 6 to 1 each v First Principle and Heatherbrae, 8 to 1 each v Bonnie Plume and Wedding Day, 12 to 1 v My Palm, 14 to 1 v Ickle Lass, 20 to 1 v Sobrina, 25 to 1 v others.

First Principle, Boureong, and Gallipoli were the smartest off the mark, but at the end of a furlong Obvious took charge and showed the way along the back, closely followed by First Principle, Heatherbrae, and Bonnie Plume. When they reached the half-mile post Obvious was still leading from Heatherbrae, William Scott, First Principle, Bonnie Plume, Lord Acre, and Spurn, but a little further on Heatherbrae took charge from Obvious, and they were succeeded by First Principle, William Scott, Ickle Lass, Wedding Day, and Spurn. Obvious and Heatherbrae, on terms, swung into line for home, with First Principle, Sobrina, Spurn, and Bonnie Plume in their wake. When they reached the distance Spurn and Heatherbrae were disputing the lead just in advance of First Principle, Obvious, Sobrina, and Wedding Day, and in a great finish Spurn won by half a length from First Principle, with Sobrina a length away third. Heatherbrae was close up fourth, followed by Bonnie Plume, Ickle Lass, Wedding Day, Obvious, My Palm, William Scott, and Dave Whitton, with Boureong, Valior, and Gallipoli in the rear. Time, 1m 27s.

Mr. P. W. Horan's blk h Lingle, 4yrs, 9st (K. Bracken) 3

Other starters: Tom Castro, 9st 2lb (A. Whicker); Westcourt, 9st 7lb (W. McLachlan); Bombita, 9st (W. Lillyman); Quinologist, 8st 13lb (P. Maher); Prince Bardolph, 8st 13lb (McConnell); Harriett Graham, 8st 4lb (F. Bullock); Mehi King, 8st 4lb (Walker); Lady Bomford, 7st 13lb (J. Quigley).

Betting: 7 to 4 v Cetigne, 4 to 1 v Giru, 6 to 1 v Mehi King, 7 to 1 v Lingle, 8 to 1 v Bombita, 10 to 1 v Quinologist, 20 to 1 v others.

Westcourt jumped off in front, followed by Tom Castro, Prince Bardolph, and Cetigne, but nearing the seven furlongs post Cetigne took charge, and led along the back stretch from Westcourt, Bombita, Tom Castro, and Quinologist, with Lingle in the rear. When they reached the five furlongs post Cetigne was a length and a half in advance of Westcourt and Bombita, with Quinologist and Giru next, but at the half-mile post Giru moved up to the girths of the leader, and was succeeded by Quinologist, Westcourt, and Mehi King. That order was preserved round the bend, and Cetigne turned for home with Giru at his girths, followed by Quinologist and Mehi King, while Lingle began to move up on the rails. Giru cut down Cetigne inside the distance, and coming on beat him by half a length, while Lingle, who came very fast on the rails, was a similar distance away third. Bombita and Mehi King were two lengths off next, with Harriet Graham at the head of the others, and the last to get home were Tom Castro and Westcourt. Time, 1m 55s.

JUVENILE STAKES, of 125 sovs, second horse 20 and third 10 sovs from the prize. 6f.

Mr. "J. Baron's" b c Prince Viridis, by Prince Foote—La Crosse (imp.), 8st 5lb (C. Barden) 1
Mr. J. H. S. Barnes' ch c King o' Malt, 7st 10lb, inc. 1lb over (W. Lillyman) 2
Mr. G. M. Currie's ch c Law Student, 7st 6lb (F. Wilkinson) 3

Other starters: Baltic Sea, 9st 8lb (K. Bracken); Greenstead, 9st 1lb (M. Connell); Robkin, 8st 6lb (W. Callinan); Fight Ever, 8st 5lb (A. Wood); Sornette, 8st 3lb (A. Davis); Bronzetti, 7st 12lb (L. Walker); Tarpeian, 7st 11lb (J. Quigley); Leucosia, 7st 11lb (W. M'Lachlan); Lord Mooltan, 7st 6lb (W. Shanahan); Gurranang, 7st 5lb (F. Foley); Holtcroft, 7st 4lb (N. Russell); Harvestress, 7st 3lb (T. O'Bryan); Cool Lass, 7st 1lb (L. Bragg); Tresco, 7st (W. Crockett); Fisher's Hope, 7st (F. Russell); Bronzite, 3lb over, carr. 7st 3lb (S. Meekings); Orient Belle, 6st 10lb (D. O'Connor).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Fight Ever, 4 to 1 v Prince Viridis, 6 to 1 v Greenstead, 7 to 1 v Leucosia, 12 to each v Bronzetti and King o' Malt, 14 to 1 v Gurranang, 20 to 1 each v Tarpeian and Sornette, 25 to 1 each v Law Student and the others.

Bronzetti and Leucosia moved off in advance, but at the end of the first furlong Leucosia and King o' Malt were together in front, followed by Baltic Sea and Lord Mooltan. When they reached the half-mile post King o' Malt headed Leucosia, who was succeeded by Baltic Sea, Lord Mooltan, and Law Student; then, after a gap of four lengths, came Prince Viridis. King o' Malt came round the bend a couple of lengths from Leucosia, Baltic Sea, Gurranang, Law Student, and Prince Viridis, and without change they turned for home. At the distance King o' Malt and Wasstill were leading from Leucosia, Law Student, and Prince Viridis, but inside that point Prince Viridis came very fast on the outside, and just got up in time to win by a head from King o' Malt, who had Law Student at his girths. Leucosia was five lengths off fourth, followed by Cool Lass, Greenstead, Bronzetti, Fight Ever, and Baltic Sea, with Harvestress last. Time, 1m 14¼s.

CLUB HANDICAP of 125 sovs.; second horse 20 sovs. and third horse 5 sovs. from the prize. 1m 3f.

Mr. J. S. Love's ch h Chantemerle (imp.), by Polymelus—Amphoraria, 6yrs, 8st 13lb (K. Bracken) 1
Mr. J. A. Mayo's ch h The Fortune Hunter, 5yrs, 8st 13lb (A. Wood) 2
Messrs. P. H. Morton's and M. Osborne's ch h Coat o' Mail, 5yrs, 7st 7lb (C. Barden) 3

Other starters: Kandos, 8st 13lb (F. Foley); Canzone, 7st 12lb (W. Lillyman); Artesian, all. 3lb, car. 7st 8lb (J. Hornery); Ranger, 1lb over, car. 7st 8lb (L. Walker); March On, all. 7lb, inc. 4lb over, car. 6st 7lb (G. Lewis); Glenquinn, 9lb over, car. 7st 2lb (F. Wilkinson); Highland Band, 6st 7lb (W. Crocket).

Betting: 7 to 4 v The Fortune Hunter, 5 to 2 v Chantemerle, 6 to 1 v Kandos, 12 to 1 each v March On, Ranger, and Coat o' Mail, 20 to 1 v others.

When they had settled into their strides Coat o' Mail took charge, and rattled past the judge's box with March On, Chantemerle, and The Fortune Hunter in close attendance, Highland Band was next, and Artesian last. Increasing his advantage, Coat o' Mail raced past the mile post four lengths in front of March On, the other positions being unaltered. Save that Coat o' Mail increased his advantage to eight lengths there was no change as they raced along the back to the five furlongs post, where the field closed up, and Coat o' Mail came round the bend three lengths from Chantemerle, after whom came The Fortune Hunter and Kandos. Inside the distance Chantemerle tackled Coat o' Mail, had him in difficulties at the half distance, and won by a length from The Fortune Hunter, who was four lengths in front of Coat o' Mail. Kandos was four lengths off fourth, followed by Highland Band, Canzone, Ranger, and Artesian, with Glenquinn and March On in the rear. Time, 2m 20¼s.

PARRAMATTA MILE of 100 sovs; second horse 10, and third 5 sovs from prize.

Mr. J. W. Cook's br h Dear Laddie, by Ayr Laddie (imp.)—Bright Alice, 4yrs, 8st 6lb (K. Bracken) 1
Mr. W. Fletcher's br g Wirrilla, aged, 8st 13lb (C. Barden) 2
Mr. J. Tomlinson's b g Medley (imp.), aged, 9st (F. Bullock) 3

Other starters: Three Star, 9st 10lb (M. Connell); Challenge Crosse, all. 3lb, carr. 9st 2lb (F. O'Connor); La Balfour, 9st 1lb (J. Quigley); Black Nut, 9st (T. Cook); Karanaud King, 9st (A. Wood); Lancelot, 8st 12lb (W. Callinan); Clydesdale, 8st 11lb (W. Lillyman); Hopoast, all. 3lb, carr. 8st 8lb (W. Crockett); Lady Isolt, 8st 11lb (F. Foley); Blazing Hot, 8st 7lb (L. Walker); Ileen Alwyne, all. 3lb, carr. 8st 4lb (J. Toohey); Torchy, 8st 4lb (W. M'Lachlan); Far West, 8st 4lb (S. Lamond); Mafoon, 8st 3lb (W. Manning); De Lyssa, 8st (T. Rice); Taquisara, all. 3lb, carr. 7st 7lb (F. Wilkinson); Jack Rice, 7st 10lb (L. Siely); Pro Tem, all. 5lb, carr. 7st 5lb (S. Meekings); De troit, 7st 7lb (F. Russell); Pink and Blue, all. 7lb, carr. 7st (G. Lewis); Burradoo, 7st 7lb (A. Davis); Lineage, 7st 2lb, inc. 1lb over (P. Maher).

Betting: 7 to 2 v La Balfour, 4 to 1 v Dear Laddie, 7 to 1 v Karanaud King, 10 to 1 each v Three Star, Hopoast, and Blazing Hot, 12 to 1 each v Lady Isolt, Lineage, and Mafoon, 14 to 1 v Wirrilla, 20 to 1 each v Challenge Crosse and others.

Torchy and Dear Laddie moved off in front, and, at the end of a furlong, were succeeded by Clydeside, Ileen Alwyne, Three Star, and Hopoast. That order was preserved along the back to the half-mile post, where Dear Laddie drew up level with Torchy, and they were closely followed by Three Star, La Balfour, Wirrilla, Hopoast, and De Lyssa. Nearing the three-furlong post Dear Laddie shook off Torchy, and they came round the bend just in advance of Ileen Alwyne, Three Star, La Balfour, Wirrilla, and Hopoast. Dear Laddie turned for home well clear from his followers, the nearest of whom were Torchy, Wirrilla, Ileen Alwyne, Hopoast, and Medley. At the distance Dear Laddie was four lengths clear from Wirrilla, who closed the gap as they neared the post, Dear Laddie winning by nearly a length. Medley was three lengths off, third, followed by Hopoast, Taquisara, La Balfour, Ileen Alwyne, Torchy, Challenge Crosse, Lady Isolt, Black Nut, and De Lyssa, while Clydeside, Lineage, and Blazing Hot were the last to pass the post. Time, 1m 41¼s.

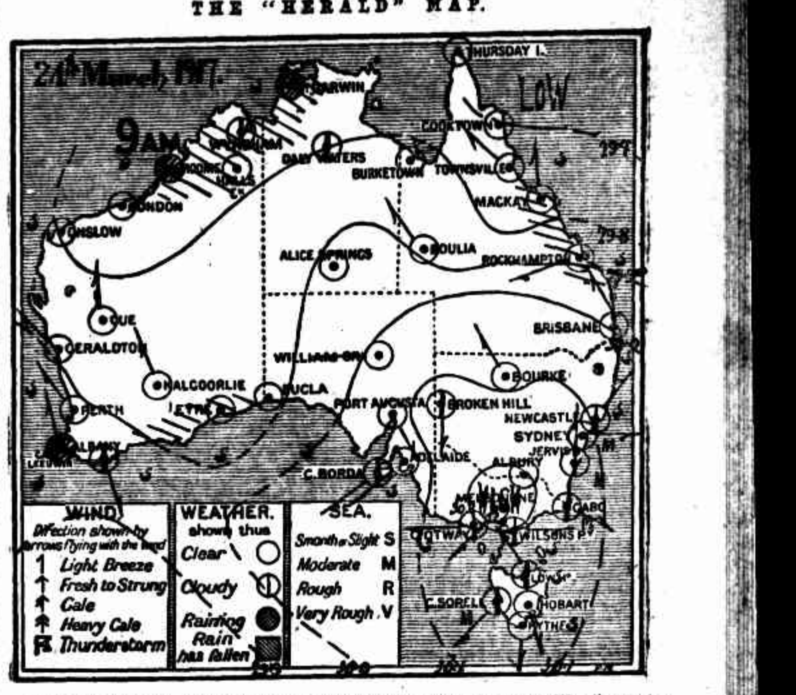
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



During the 24 hours ended yesterday the high pressure advanced about 600 miles eastward and displaced the Antarctic disturbance which was responsible for the southerly gales on the South Coast.

This "high" has gained in barometric values since Friday, but the central readings only cover a very small area between Melbourne, Omeo, and Bendigo, and so far has been responsible for cold weather, with frost over those districts.

The monsoonal depression has surged still further northwards, and is at present over the Coral Sea, while the Antarctic disturbance has moved rapidly eastward. At 9 o'clock on Saturday it was centred to the south-east of the Bluff, New Zealand.

Warm weather, with northerly winds should prevail by Monday.

THE MONEY POINT OF VIEW.

PEARS' SOAP, pure in every particle, costs no more than ordinary toilet soaps.—Advt.

"THE TIVOLI FOLLIES."

Anticipation was sharpened by delay in the case of Vera Pearce at the opening of the Tivoli Follies' Easter season on Saturday night, but when she did appear the actress looked as bonnie and self-possessed as ever in a melodious song, "Kiss Me," musically without points worth remembering, but successfully backed by a vivacious and well-dressed chorus. Miss Pearce made her chief vocal success in "Poor Butterfly," for which she was richly attired in a Japanese kimono, with quaintly fantastic Oriental scenery. The crimson glow over the landscape suggested that Fusiyama was in volcanic eruption hard-by! The singer was in full voice, and rendered with feeling music in the style of a lamentation. The composer's scheme accordingly involved pity-pleading discords for the strings. These were tenderly interpreted under the direction of Mr. Will Quintrell. Miss Pearce and George Welch contributed one of the best scenes of the evening in "The Silent Drink," in which the lady gave orders to an invisible attendant, and offered her companion invisible drinks. When it was his turn to press the bell, a waiter (Billy Rego) promptly materialised, amidst roars of laughter; and there was a deal of fun in the alternate moving of the goblet, as at draughts, which ended by the scarecrow dude absorbing the whisky with the apposite remark, "I huff you for not taking it!"

The melodrama rehearsal, "Snow-bound," was well acted by Daisy Yates, Jean Keith, Messrs. Cannot, and Welch; but these burlesque efforts are becoming a trifle overdone; nor was the subsequent tumbling act a strong contribution. However, there was a clever sketch, "Marriage a la Mode," in which Miss Pearce wore something ahead of the fashion in silk of a wonderful magenta colour, and played the part of the young wife so ably as to suggest that we may yet see her as a comedy actress. Sydney Yates was in place as the young husband; George Welch presented his talents in a new light as the lover; Elsie Parkes was the maid; and Jack Cannot was inimitable as the old family butler. This last-named artist shines only in definite characters, and loses a great deal by the mere "fooling" of the average silly revue.

Miss Thelma Raye was frequently before the footlights, in gorgeous costumes, with daintily-rendered songs. In amethyst and silver the artist warbled sweetly "Some Day, Some Boy" to a circle of grooms in chocolate-coloured livery, the choice of that dress being one of those things "no fellow could understand." Like Minnie Love, at their other house, this artist is also to some extent proficient on "that hard beast," the violin; and she wore tarpaulins and a sou'wester to please the punster who concocted "You'll be my Rain-beau," whilst an obliging chorus put up their ginghams! Jack Cannot sat down to the piano for the duet with the soprano at the end of the evening, and they might have sung, and sung well, a little serious music to relieve the monotony of incessant "bubbles"—only they didn't! The fair-haired Diana-like Daisy Yates shared with her brother the honours of the graceful "Maxine Dance," and the latter joined with Jean Keith in the ingenious and much-applauded "Staircase Dance." Some mild fun was evolved by voice trials for a chorus in the Revue King's Office, and various other follies, with dazzling illumination over gleaming silks and satins, filled in a warmly-welcomed entertainment.

Mr. Walter Bentley announced the election returns from the stage during the evening.

WIRTH'S CIRCUS.

With a big ring, a well-appointed stage, electric lighting, good ventilation, and all the comforts of a theatre in regard to seating accommodation, Wirth Brothers opened their Sydney Easter season at the Haymarket Hippodrome on Saturday night. Nearly everyone in the crowded stalls, the dress circle, and the gallery must have noticed a change from the old order of things before the picturesque parade of horses, ponies, and elephants at 8 o'clock. Matting took the place of sawdust in the ring, and instead of a noisy brass band there was an orchestra under the direction of Mr. F. Taylor. What may be described as the new sensation of the show, "King Neptune and the Lovely Mermaids," enabled the management to present something out of the ordinary in a "real water" spectacle. While the Riogoku Family of Japanese acrobats were going through their feats of skill and agility on the stage the removal of the matting covering the ring exposed a wooden floor. Suddenly the flooring disappeared and the ring was filled with water, up from which came King Neptune (Mr. W. Kitchener), who was joined by eight good-looking girls in stylish surf-bathing costumes and black stockings. The water rose until the old Sea King and the modern mermaids were lost to sight, only to reappear after an exhibition of fancy swimming by Mr. R. Cavill. The ring was again flooded, and the amphibious "mermaids" made the pace a lively one in water-sport, which ended with Professor Scott's "high diving." The sinking ring has been so arranged that it can be lowered or raised from one foot to nine feet.

The show includes a huge cage of lions, trained by Captain Linde, a trick bear, Captain Frank Holing's performing seals and sea-lions, and several "educated elephants." Whitened to look like sculptures, Bailey's posing dogs and a horse are seen on the stage in a series of war-time incidents and episodes. Among the "ring events" are Miss Beattie de Almas, trick riding; Mr. G. Christie's six-horse picture act; and the comedy acrobatic turn of the Rowland troupe, who arrive and depart on a drag drawn by four white horses. A daring Japanese, who keeps his balance with a sunshade, does a backward slide on a rope from the gallery to the ring, and Maxime is a clever "drunk on the wire" who sets a very difficult act to the music of laughter. There will be a matinee at the Hippodrome on Wednesday.

WAR CASUALTIES.

KILLED.

LIEUT. ROWE.

Mrs. Frank Rowe (E.S. and A. Bank, Waverley) has received news that her husband, Lieut. Francis Godolphin Rowe, was killed in action in France on the 11th inst. The late Lieut. F. G. Rowe was the fifth son of the late Colonel Rowe and Mrs. Rowe, of Reveille, Lavender Bay, North Sydney.

SERGT. H. J. D. SHARP.

Mr. H. C. Sharp, of Homebush, has received news that his son, H. J. D. Sharp, who left as sergeants in the 15th Reinforcements, 19th Battalion, was killed in action on February 28. He was educated at Geelong College, Victoria, qualified as a public accountant, and was in the office of Messrs. Dowling and Taylor, solicitors. He was 26 years of age, and married shortly before leaving. His brother, Private G. R. Sharp, who was at the Gallipoli landing is in hospital in England suffering from shrapnel wound.

SERGT. J. W. RIORDAN, D.C.M.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Riordan, of Russelvale, near Bellambi, have been informed that their son, Sergt. J. W. Riordan, has been killed in action in France. Sergt. Riordan saw service in Gallipoli. Subsequently he proceeded to France, and the able manner in which he led his men in a charge resulted in his receiving the D.C.M. At the time a congratulatory message was sent to his parents by Major-General H. B. Cox. Deceased has a brother at the front.

LANCE-CORPORAL A. CULLEN.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cullen, of Rosebank, Raynor-street, West Leichhardt, have received official intimation that their third son, Lance-corporal Alick Cullen was killed in action on February 25. Prior to enlisting, he was employed as an engineer by the Peacock Jam Company.

PRIVATE R. DUNCAN.

Mrs. Duncan, of Campbell-street, Sans Souci, and late of Guildford, has received news that her son, Private Ralph Duncan, aged 20 years, was killed in action in France on February 25.

PRIVATE FRANK JOHNSON.

News has been received that Private Frank Johnson, a brother of Mr. W. H. Johnson, of Church-street, Parramatta, was killed in action in France on February 25. He was 20 years of age. His brother, Edward, is at the front.

PRIVATE J. H. NELSON.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Nelson, of The Rocks, near Berrigan, have received intimation that their youngest son, Private J. H. Nelson, was killed in action in France on February 27.

PRIVATE FRANK PALMER.

Confirmation of the death in action of Private Frank Palmer has just been received in a letter to his brother, Mr. S. G. Palmer, of Chatswood, from the officer commanding the 1st Australian Machine-gun Company. Private Frank Palmer took part in the historic landing at Gallipoli on April 25, and remained on the Peninsula without a break till the evacuation. On the formation of the 1st Australian Machine-gun Company he was transferred to this unit, and proceeded to France, where he was killed whilst asleep in a dug-out on December 29, 1916. Previously he was in the service of David Jones, Ltd.

PRIVATE CHARLES M'CULLOCH.

Information was received in Parkes on Thursday of the death in the firing line in France of Private Charles M'Culloch. The deceased was married.

DIED OF WOUNDS.

PRIVATE CHARLIE JACOB.

Private Charlie Jacob, son of Mrs. Sarah Jacob, of Wagga, has died of wounds in France. Deceased, who was 36 years of age, was well known in the Wagga district.

PRIVATE FRED WRAY.

Word has been received that Private Fred Wray, brother of Mr. A. G. Wray, assistant tramway engineer, Sydney, died of wounds received in France on February 27. He was born at Bathurst 42 years ago, and was engaged in pastoral pursuits for the last 20 years in the Moree district. Prior to enlisting in March last year he was a member of the firm of Ferguson and Wray, stock and station agents, Bunarba, near Mungindi. Both partners at their country's call sacrificed their business to join the colours.

PRIVATE W. A. EGGINS.

Private W. A. Eggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Eggins, of Tingha, died in the Second Australian Casualty Station in France on March 10 from wounds. He was 18 years of age, and had only been a short time in the firing-line. Another son is ill in hospital, and a third is proceeding to the front.

PRIVATE LESLIE E. THOMPSON.

Mr. James Thompson, farmer, Matong, has been advised by the Defence Department that his third son, Private Leslie E. Thompson, 7th Battalion, died of wounds on March 5. His two elder brothers are at the front.

DIED IN GERMANY.

PRIVATE LESLIE LEISTER.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Leister, of Parkes, have received information from the Information Bureau of the Red Cross Society that the name of their son, Private Leslie Leister, appeared in the German list of dead dated November 4, 1916. Private Leister, who was reported missing on July 19 last, was a native of Parkes. He was 22 years of age, and enlisted at Newcastle in October, 1915.

WOUNDED.

SECOND-LIEUTENANT J. M. LYONS.

Information has been received that 2nd-Lieutenant J. M. Lyons has been wounded in France. Lieutenant Lyons went as a private to Rabaul, and on his discharge re-enlisted and went to Egypt, where he gained his sergeant's stripes, and then to Gallipoli. He left Egypt in March last year for France, and was wounded before Pozieres. On his return he rejoined his battalion and won a commission.

CORPORAL ROY W. MOFFATT.

Corporal Roy W. Moffatt, brother of Mrs. R. R. Ferguson, Warringa-road, North Sydney, is officially reported to have been wounded in France. He enlisted a few days after the declaration of war, and was a member of the 1st Naval and Military Expedition to New Guinea.

PRIVATE L. FORDHAM.

Mrs. Stockbridge, of 16 Ruthven-street, Waverley, has received news that her brother, Private Leslie Fordham, has been wounded in France. His brother, Charles, is also in France with the A.I.F.

PRIVATE L. YEATS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Yeats, of Barnsby-grove, Dulwich Hill, have been officially informed that their son, Pte. Lex Yeats, was admitted to hospital suffering from gunshot wounds in the thigh on March 8.

PRIVATE C. EVANS.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Evans, of Bronte, have been officially advised that their son, Private C. Evans, has been wounded, and is in hospital in England. This is the second occasion that Private Evans has been wounded, he having been disabled at Pozieres in July last. Prior to enlisting Private Evans was a process engraver with Bacon and Co., of Pitt-street.

PRIVATE McKENZIE.

Mrs. E. McKenzie, of Yarrawonga, Mittagong, has received a cable message that her only son, John K. McKenzie, has been admitted to hospital with gun-shot wounds.

MISSING.

THRIFT CAMPAIGN.

A women's thrift campaign will open this week. Commencing to-day, meetings will be held in the King's hall, Hunter-street, each night up to and including Friday, also on several afternoons, when addresses will be delivered by prominent persons. The aims are to teach the meaning of thrift, national and personal; to eliminate waste by encouraging efficiency and employment in necessary occupations, and to encourage saving and investment in war loans.

VOLUNTARY WORKERS.

Mr. George Fitzpatrick, hon. secretary of the Voluntary Workers' Association, states that a medium-sized store is urgently required in the city. A number of people have given various articles of furniture, which cannot be removed at once, and it is proposed to store it in the city, so that each soldier may receive equitable treatment, and the men returning later on will not receive any less than those who are now in the State. The Voluntary Workers' Association is endeavouring to standardise the benefit given to each of its beneficiaries, hence the need of a store to place the furniture.

WAR QUESTIONS.

"Wollongong."—The address given on the official postcard forwarded to you from Lieut.-Colonel Luscombe is the one you can continue to use.

"Pozieres" (Surry Hills).—You should apply to the Base Records Office, Melbourne, giving his number, full name, battalion or corps.

"West Aus." (Waverley).—In such a case it is optional for the soldier to return to which State he prefers.

"Bland" (Coogee).—(1) If you pay the interest the mortgagee cannot foreclose. (2) There is no need to re-mortgage. (3) It stands until the end of the war.

"E.R." (Darlinghurst).—You should give his number, Private ——, 4th Battalion, Australian Imperial Force, Abroad.

"Worker" (North Sydney).—Apply to the Secretary, the Railway Commissioners, Sydney, for these particulars.

"A.W." (Woollahra).—He can only take the kit bag issued to him by the military authorities.

"M.C." (Glebe).—These are questions which can only be answered by Headquarters Administration A.I.F., London.

"Anxious" (Belmore).—The child is entitled to the allowance.

"G.G." (Goulburn).—Leave out the reinforcements and always give the soldier's number first, thus:—No. ——, Private ——, 33 Battalion, On Active Service, Abroad.

"M.C.W." (Moree).—Parcels the contents of which are bona-fide gifts for troops will be accepted as usual.

"Soldier's Wife."—A sergeant's pay on active service is 10s 6d a day, of which 2s is deferred. You cannot obtain any extra allotment until he writes to the Expeditionary Paymaster here and authorises him to increase your allotment.

"Anxious" (Newtown).—The address is now No. ——, Warrant-Officer, ——, 2nd Australian Divisional Artillery, On Active Service, Abroad.

C.T. ("Bondi").—It should be No. —, Private——, 5th Australian Division, Headquarters, Australian Imperial Force, Abroad. If any letter so addressed is again returned from the G.P.O. as not deliverable, write immediately to the Base Records Office, Melbourne, quoting the address and the dates the letters were returned to you by the G.P.O.

"W.J.D." (Waterfall).—It should read:—No. 1072, Private——, Dental Section, Australian Imperial Force, Abroad. All the rest is unnecessary, and the name of any country is not allowed.

NO IDLE BOAST.
NO IDLE BOAST.
NO IDLE BOAST.

It is no idle boast to say that the genuine Pianola Piano has grown in popular favour more rapidly than any other in the world.

We are striving to produce the very best instrument in the world to-day, and the response of the Public to our efforts is more than gratifying.

Our standard is "THE BEST AT A LOW PRICE," and as Manufacturers on a large scale we are able to give the Public the advantage of BUYING DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURERS.

The Genuine Pianola Piano is obtainable only in the Steinway, Steck, Stroud, and famous English Weber Pianos.

The genuine Pianola Piano can be obtained for as low as 120 Guineas, cash or terms. CALL OR SEND FOR A CATALOG.

CARNEGIE'S PIANOS.
The outlay necessary for purchasing a piano is often too great to permit of cash being paid. We therefore arrange for those of our customers who find it convenient a system of easy terms payments which may extend over any period up to FIVE years. This is two years more than the average; yet it will be found by comparison that our actual selling prices are not "loaded" to cover the longer period. In fact, we invite comparison of other price lists with ours.

COUNTRY DEPARTMENT.
The most up-to-date and extensive in Commonwealth. Hotels everywhere at all prices, and known to and inspected by our own reliable, experienced travellers. ESTABLISHED OVER 19 YEARS. Consult us; the benefit of our knowledge of the trade generally is at your disposal. NO CONNECTION with any other firm or office, and we have made NO CHANGES in NAME or ADDRESS. We guarantee to show any bona fide buyer any business advertised by us.

HOTEL, COUNTRY, WITHOUT a doubt the very best business on offer in the State to-day. LEASE has about 9 YEARS to run at a weekly rental of £5/10/. TAKINGS £150 weekly, all 6d drinks, and tariff 10/ per day only. Beautifully furnished and equipped with all modern ideas. Has command of a very select class of trade; in fact, it has the first-class trade of a wealthy town and district absolutely to itself. MANY years in same hands, net profits are proved at £2800 per annum. There are exceptional reasons for selling, such reasons will be fully explained to any bona fide buyer. Our traveller reports: "We should sell this great business to the first buyer who inspects, as it is without a doubt the best business I have seen for some time." Any investigation courted, and, as stated above, takings are proved at £150 weekly. Can finance with £2500. £2300.
HOTEL, COUNTRY, a great little bar trade, only with little or no opposition, modern, up-to-date brick house, right at busy railway station, where thousands of bags of wheat are stacked annually. It is a district that never knows a failure. Lease about 7 years; takings £35 weekly, all 6d drinks. House well furnished. See this for £1850. Liberal terms.
HOTEL, COUNTRY, a fine corner position, at present run down, although still showing an average weekly turnover of £70, all 6d drinks. Well furnished and appointed. Inventory contains horse, 'bus, harness, etc. Quirk air gas plant; is connected with sewer, and stands on the best corner position in a good business town. LEASE has over 10 years to run. Price, £1300, terms, £1300.
HOTEL, COUNTRY (famous ILLAWARRA), LEASE 7 years, rent £5, bar takings alone £65 weekly, beer trade 6 x 36's, house trade could be considerably improved. Hotels in this favoured industrial district are always ready sellers. Cash £800.
HOTEL, COUNTRY, NO OPPOSITION, 8 years' lease, rent £2/10/ per week, takings £40 weekly, all 6d drinks, well worth inspecting at £600.
HOTEL BUYERS, if your requirements are not in above list, consult us; we can offer you hotels in any part of city, in any suburb, or in any country town or district.
